

Oakley cites many blessings

Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley has extended a Christmas message to community residents.

As I thought of what to say in my first Christmas message to Romulus residents as mayor, the first thing that came to mind was how blessed we are as a nation and a people.

Nowhere else that I know of, do people have as much freedom to live as they wish, say what they think, become what they will and worship as they please, as we do in this country.

Particularly, at this season of year we should pause and be truly thankful.

Applying this closer to home, we as Romulus residents, have much to be thankful for.

During the past year, we have seen construction begin on a new 34th district court facility and a new fire department headquarters building.

The Secretary of State's office is re-opening in Romulus to provide residents with a full range of services. Overwhelming commitment in support of a new post office for Romulus has been provided by citizens from throughout the city.

Our city has experienced record industrial growth and development this year.

This means the city's tax base is growing, and the city is getting more money from industry to finance government operations, and provide additional services to Romulus residents.

However, we cannot afford to rest or take our good fortune for granted. These past accomplishments are the direct result of the hard work, time and effort of many dedicated people, including the city council, boards and commission members, city staff and concerned citizens.

Now, we must renew our efforts, as the new year approaches, to see that the coming year is as prosperous and successful as 1977.

It is my earnest desire that we all will discover the true meaning of Christmas this season and personally experience the joy, peace and happiness that will extend throughout the coming year.

It is with this hope that I wish you all a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

William M. Oakley
Mayor, City of Romulus

Puskar offers cheer

The approach of the Christmas season and the new year has brought a message of good cheer from supervisor John Puskar to residents of Huron Township.

"I wish the citizens of Huron Township a Merry Christmas. I hope that their health and their spirits are better in the coming year than they were in the last year. I wish them the best of health and good fortune," Puskar said.

In looking back at the last year of operation, the supervisor admitted the township had "its share of ups and downs." But, he noted, a few of the problems confronting the township are being resolved.

He explained, "Financially, we are still burdened. We had to cut the budget below that of last year in the face of rising costs.

"With no millage for township police services, it's a strain to keep these services available to township residents. To keep some services, we have to cut others," he said.

Actually, he added, the expenses for some items were higher last year than what was allocated in this year's budget.

"On the good side, however, a lot of the political problems which faced our board are being resolved and the members of the board are beginning to work well together.

"If they continue working well together, the end result will be in the best interests of the total community," Puskar said.

Lighting up Romulus at Christmas

Gleaming like a jewel against the dark sky, the lighted star atop the Romulus city Christmas tree beams its message of good will to residents during the yuletide season. Sparkling lights glow like rhinestones on the tree and city hall after the annual tree lighting ceremonies. Amy Anderson, 5, threw the switch that ignited the Christmas bulbs on the tree, city hall and public library. Mayor William M. Oakley held little Amy as she handled the annual switch-throwing activity. Along with the lighting ceremony, Santa Claus and Christmas Carol were escorted up to city hall on the Romulus Fire Department's attack-pumper truck. Cold weather and construction work on the entrance to city hall's parking lot was blamed for the drop in attendance which saw only 350 children and adults attend the festivities. It was about half the number of last year's turnout. Christmas carols were led by members of Community Methodist Church. After greeting Santa Claus, the crowd was served hot chocolate, coffee and donuts while the jolly gent was busy giving all children who showed up to greet him a bag of fruit and candy.

$8,800,000 city budget approved

After more than seven months delay, including a lawsuit brought against it by a local resident, Romulus City Council passed an $8.8 million budget last week which was originally submitted by former Mayor James C. Stewart.

Passage of the budget came in a surprise move after Mayor William M. Oakley had submitted his version of the 1977-78 city budget.

After Council member Beverly McAnally moved to set a date to discuss Oakley's new budget, she withdrew her motion when Councilman Gerry Canejo moved to adopt the Stewart budget presented at a Sept. 27 public hearing.

Canejo's motion to adopt former Mayor Stewart's budget was supported by Jimmie C. Raspberry and gained affirmative votes from McAnally and Mary Carter.

Fred (Junior) Block voted no and Mary Ann Banks and Ray Cantrell abstained.

Stewart's budget, which council wrangled over for several months during the recent political campaign, is for $6,767,173. A public hearing has been held on the ex-mayor's draft.

Oakley's version, which is almost identical to the budget passed by council last week, will be considered as an addendum to the Stewart budget with slight revisions in a few provisions.

On the inside

Christmas can be deadly

As the family sat waiting in the emergency room on Christmas Eve, all anticipation of the merriest of Christmases ever had turned to feelings of desperation, fear and guilt. They had decorated the house with all the traditional trappings of Christmas, including a ball of fresh mistletoe. And now two-year-old Jeremy was so sick. He had found some of the little white berries that dropped off and had eaten them. Christmas can be a happy time, but lurking here and there still are those safety threats experts warn about. See story on Page A-2.

Metroparks are popular

Among the most popular winter playgrounds in southeastern Michigan are the Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority's metroparks, serving the citizens of Wayne, Macomb, Livingston, Oakland and Washtenaw counties. See story on Page A-8.

Yule loneliness can be avoided

Christmastime means getting together with family and friends. But for some it can mean an even lonelier existence. ANP columnist Maureen Beatty takes a look at loneliness and offers some ways to brighten up the holiday season on Page B-4.

Could cover nation

CB network aids police

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

A gigantic step in curbing the flood of crimes in Wayne County has been undertaken by an enthusiastic group of CB fans, both civilian and police.

Called "Starship Command" by its followers, the CB network currently has its home base of operations at the Wayne County Sheriff's Patrol and Investigation headquarters, 3100 Henry Ruff Rd., Westland.

If the success enjoyed thus far keeps mushrooming, the CB network, which has been endorsed by Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas, could spread to the entire state, and eventually, the nation.

Starship Command is the brainchild of Deputy Kay Daley, a 12-year veteran of the sheriff's force, and Bobbie Garrett, a female civilian CB buff. He goes by the CB handle of "Raven" while she answers to "Cherokee Lady."

Rounding out the nucleus of the brain trust which began the ball rolling to aid law enforcement via the CB air waves are civilians Jim and Judy Dennett (Jimbo and Southern Lady) and Deputy Larry Waetjen (Double Eagle).

What Starship Command does is to enable anyone with a mobile or home CB set to report a crime taking place or an emergency over a specified channel on his CB. The message is then relayed by one or more CB fans hearing it until it gets to the police dispatcher, in this case, Starship Command at the deputies headquarters on Henry Ruff.

Deputy Daley said he first got the idea when on patrol. He heard the details of an accident being reported on his CB set which he also carries in his squad car. He tried to get a message through the caller, but was stymied by others broadcasting on the same channel. The few minutes lost resulted in two persons bleeding to death before help arrived, he said. He said this is similar to someone not getting off a two or more party telephone line when it is needed in an emergency situation.

Since last February, Daley and his CB cohorts have worked out the details for a CB network to assist law enforcement officials to stop and curb crime so prevalent on our streets.

Once given the go-ahead by Sheriff Lucas, Senior Inspector Richard Novak, who heads the jail, airport squad and road patrol at the Henry Ruff location, helped Daley and his group get off the ground.

Since Nov. 6 of this year, Daley said his group had grown to about 70 volunteers, both deputies and civilian, mostly the latter group. From 7 p.m. until 4 p.m. daily, three volunteers man the CB network, each working a three-hour shift.

The Starship Command CB station serves as a focal point for some 80 satellite CB bases, mostly of the home type, Daley said.

Currently, the deputy said, Ft. Worth, Tex., is the only other location in the United States which is working with a similar CB network to aid the fight against crime.

Building sets record

More than $5 million in residential, commercial and industrial construction applied for during November brought total building in Romulus to an all-time high of $24 million for the first 11 months of this year.

The figures, released by the city building department, showed that builders spent more than $200,000 for building permit fees during 1977 for construction in the city.

Actual totals for November were $29,804 spent for permits to build 32 buildings at a total cost of $5,176,934, the monthly building report stated.

Included in the November totals were: $2,280,000 for an engineering complex at Detroit Diesel Allison Division; $1,900,000 for an industrial building at Jones Transfer; $430,000 for the Tigris Restaurant by George Yousuf; $336,000 for an addition by R. L. Mondrush; $43,000 for sheet metal work by Host International at Metro Airport; $33,940 for a loading dock by Dobbs House, Inc.

Broken lights costly

A total of 52 street lights were found to be out of order in Romulus following a city-wide inspection completed last Tuesday by the city assessor's office.

According to Dave Krause, city assessor, the 52 defective street lights were reported immediately to Detroit Edison for repair.

Krause said he believed many of the lights had not been working for several months and that city residents would still be stuck for their use.

"These 52 lights cost Romulus residents $657.45 a month whether working or not," he said.

As a result of the inspection, Krause sent a memorandum to Mayor William M. Oakley urging that the review of street lights in the city be made on an annual basis.

He also recommended to the mayor ".... that people who see a street light not working should phone the city assessor's office with the exact location of the light."

The assessor said that Detroit Edison usually repairs the faulty street lights within two days unless their work crews are busy with repairs brought on by a storm or other emergency.

Yule's traditional trappings: Hidden danger

As the family sat waiting in the emergency room on Christmas Eve, all anticipation for one of the merriest Christmases ever had turned to feelings of desperation, fear and guilt.

They had decorated the house with all the traditional trappings of Christmas, including a ball of fresh mistletoe. And now, 2-year-old Jeremy was so sick. He had found some of the little white berries that dropped off and had eaten them.

When he had begun to vomit around supper time, they thought it was too much candy and excitement. Then when he got pale and collapsed, his 5-year-old sister told of seeing him eat the berries earlier in the afternoon.

A frantic call was made to the Poison Control Center at the Children's Hospital of Michigan, where the poison information specialist at the center recommended that the child be brought immediately to the hospital emergency room.

Now in the waiting area of the emergency room, the family remembered how everyone had laughed and kissed when the mistletoe was hung that morning, and wished they had never brought it into the house.

The doctor came out to talk with the family. He said that Jeremy was very sick. The only consolation he could give them was that Jeremy was being taken to Children's Intensive Care Unit where all possible supportive care would be given by a team of experts. There is no known specific antidote for mistletoe poisoning. It would be several days before the outcome would be known.

Traditionally mistletoe has been associated with a joyous season, however, few are aware of the potential dangers which the history of the plant fails to explain.

Shakespeare called it "the baleful Mistletoe", an allusion to the Scandinavian legend that Blader, the god of Peace, was slain with an arrow made of mistletoe. He was restored to life at the request of other gods and goddesses, and mistletoe was afterwards given into the keeping of the goddess of Love, and it was ordained that everyone who passed under it should receive a kiss, to show that the branch had become an emblem of love, not of hate.

The Druids held that the mistletoe protected its possessor from all evil and it was supposed to cure all sickness. They sent round their attendant youth with branches of mistletoe to announce the entrance of the new year. This old custom plus the belief that mistletoe was so powerful in amity that if enemies met under it in a wood, they would lay down their arms until the next day, is probably how it has gotten included in our traditional decorations at Christmas—hung in doorways or in corridors where people pass so that they can kiss in love and friendship during the holiday season.

However, there is another side to mistletoe—it becomes a deadly poison when ingested with no known antidote—which requires it be used very carefully for decorations, if young children are going to be present. Although Jeremy's story in this new release is not from a specific case history, it reflects a common problem that exists throughout the United States during his season.

As the holiday season rapidly approaches, so do some dangers unique to this time of year. Don't expose your family to unnecessary hazards. Listed below are a few precautions that should be taken in order to keep your family's holiday happy and safe.

HOLIDAY DINNER: The traditional turkey feast may hold a hidden danger of food poisoning, if the cook is careless in food preparations and the storage of leftovers.

The two major hazards generated in spoiled foods are an intestinal infection, called salmonellosis (specifically from poultry and eggs) and a type of poisoning from Staphylococcus often found in turkey dressing, pumpkin pie and cream or custard desserts.

Keep fresh fowl in the refrigerator until ready to be cooked. Remember that frozen fowl must be thawed in the refrigerator for several days, depending on the weight of the bird. Cook fowl thoroughly.

If possible, make the dressing just before cooking. Dressing prepared a day ahead, should be refrigerated separately until cooking.

Remove, wrap and refrigerate both dressing and turkey immediately. To freeze leftover fowl and dressing, wrap separately and plan to use within six weeks.

All other leftovers should be refrigerated as soon as possible. Custard and cream-filled desserts could be especially dangerous, if left unrefrigerated.

HOLIDAY DECORATIONS: There is approximately two-thirds of a teaspoon of bubbling fluid in each Christmas tree bubble light. When a bulb is broken, and the remainder of the contents is ingested, it is unlikely that a child could receive a toxic quantity. Central nervous system depression or excitation is possible, however, and your doctor or the Poison Control Center should be contacted.

In the case of fireplace colors, there are salts or metals, such as copper, barium, selenium and lead. Ingestion of heavy metal salts can cause intense stomach and intestinal irritation and other toxic manifestations.

Christmas tree ornaments made of thin metal, plastic (molded or foam) are only of concern for the mechanical potential to cut or obstruct. Paint or coloring on these objects has no reputation for causing poisoning.

Spun glass, or angel hair, can cause irritation of the eyes, skin, stomach and intestinal tract, while the "snow" particles of aerosol sprays are composed of an inert plastic material and fatty acid and should lead to no toxic consequence, if ingested. The propellant vehicles for these particles, methylene chloride and freons, evaporate after the aerosol mixture is sprayed onto an object; thus they are absent when the dry "snow" particles are ingested.

TOXICITY OF HOLIDAY PLANTS:

—Mistletoe (especially the berries) has symptoms of stomach irritation, slow pulse and collapse.

—Boxwood (leaves and twigs) has symptoms of stomach irritations and convulsions.

—Jerusalem cherry (fruit) has symptoms of stomach irritation, depression and possibly shock.

—Jequirity bean (rosary pea) has symptoms of delayed stomach irritation, shock, coma and trembling.

—Yew species (all parts) has symptoms of stomach irritation, shortness of breath, weakness, shock, coma, convulsions, and slow pulse.

—Pyracantha (berries) has a symptom of minor stomach irritation.

An additional threat are the pre-mixed cocktails which look creamy and are flavored with strawberry, chocolate, banana and other tempting tastes. Children could easily mistake these for milk drinks and consume enough to cause low blood sugar, stupor or coma.

Alcohol is also an ingredient of many popular Christmas gifts—cologne, after shave and perfume. Due to the fact that many of these containers do not have safety caps, it is suggested that they be placed out of reach of youngsters.

And if an emergency does arise, contact the Children's Hospital Poison Center at 494-5711.

On The 'Brighter Side'

Steve Henry of Romulus is one who likes to get out and get things done. He decorated his home, 34865 Goddard Road, across from the Civic Center, with more than 2,000 lights and strung the illuminated Christmas bulbs through the trees and bushes in front of his house. Many homeowners, like Henry, brighten up the area landscape during the Christmas season with their ambitious lighting endeavors. 'Starship Command' speaking

He explained that the local CB network consists of interlocking and overlapping rings of CB transmitters and receivers located about five miles apart. This, a message transmitted and missed by some receivers would be picked up by others within the five-mile radius and eventually relayed to the police dispatcher on Henry Ruff.

Daley explained that legitimate CB sets are limited by law to five watts of power over as many as 40 channels. Police radios, on the other hand, broadcast over much fewer channels, but are powered by transmitters of 210 watts, enabling them to reach much longer distances.

Starship Command had the code letters KAMY 5694 and transmits and receives over Channel 9, Daley said. The approximately 80 satellite bases operate on Channels 9 and 19, he said.

Daley and his volunteers have been aided lately by a group which originally gave them a hard time - truckers with CB sets used to get past speed traps set up on I-94 and I-275. Now, he said, they cooperate fully in reporting crimes in progress, even speeders breaking the law on the "Raven's boulevard."

Starship Command hopes to utilize every segment of society in its battle to stem ever-increasing crime. Still untapped, but a vast reservoir of volunteer help, are the senior citizens who while away the hours on their personal CB sets, Daley said.

Aiding greatly in Starship Command's venture to combat crime are the contributions by retail and wholesale CB outlets, private citizens and other organizations.

Daley said three CB home bases have been given to the CB network. A CB club called the Ford Motor Co. Gas Buggies donated the base system now in use - a DAK model.

Volunteers are asked to call Starship Command at the Henry Ruff headquarters at 462-5575. They can also call Jim Dennett at 941-9324 or Bobbie Garrett at 697-0594 for information on how to join Starship Command, Daley said.

The deputy said volunteers are checked out to see that none are facing criminal warrants now and that their backgrounds lend themselves to working with the crime-curbing CB force.

All volunteers who are accepted and who work with Starship Command have stickers mounted on the rear left portion of their car's back windshield identifying them as bonafide workers.

Daley said his group presently is seeking additional volunteers to enable Starship Command to operate on a 24-hour basis.

The dedicated deputy envisions a state-wide network of CB home bases manned by volunteers around the clock. Through their efforts, many crimes could be stopped in progress, and others prevented, with a resulting reduction in damages, injuries and loss of lives.

On a nation-wide basis, employing tens of thousands of volunteers, working with police at all levels, and funded by state and federal grants, a Starship Command CB type network could spell the difference between survival and annihilation, Daley believes.

Anyone desiring to report a crime or emergency condition or wanting more information about Starship Command can call using a tollfree number, 1-800-462-5575, Daley said.

The deputy said law enforcement agencies are enthusiastic over the way that CB volunteers have aided their efforts to stem crime's inroads to the safety of our modern society.

In brief...

Revenge sought

The Romulus High School faculty will be seeking revenge for its loss last year to the Detroit Tigers basketball team when the two teams take to the floor Jan. 27 at 7:30 p.m. at the high school.

Last year, the Tigers wiped out the faculty team by an 88-79 score. Pre-game tickets are priced at $3, and tickets at the door are $3.50.

For further information and tickets, contact or send a check to Fred Coleman, c/o Romulus High School, 9650 S. Wayne Road, Romulus 48174.

Special service

As a special service to Romulus taxpayers, the City Treasurer's office will be open at City Hall on Friday, Dec. 30, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Treasurer Helen Gallien announced she will keep her office open Dec. 30 to give residents one more day to pay their current taxes and receive credit on their 1977 tax returns.

Public Information Officer Jay Young also announced that all City Hall offices will be closed Friday, Dec. 23, Monday, Dec. 26, Friday, Dec. 30 and Monday, Jan. 2, 1978.

Wheelchair makes Johnny independent

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

"He's a fantastic boy — it's a shame that very few care."

These are the descriptive words of Elizabeth Looney, a social worker who works with Johnny Golembiewski, a 27-year-old quadriplegic in Wayne's Venoy Continued Care Center, 3999 S. Wayne Rd.

Johnny is a victim of cerebral palsy, an affliction that has left the ambitious young man with the use of only his right hand. Because of this, he needs $775 as soon as possible to buy an electric wheelchair.

With the electric wheelchair, Johnny gains a sense of independence — being able to move about and even visit his friends a block away at Lexington House.

"He's a very bright young man, but he's been without an electric wheelchair for the past five months and it's been detrimental to his mental health," said Mrs. Looney, who is called "Liz" by all those at Venoy Center.

"It would be a great gesture at Christmas time and also be one of the most useful gifts they could give."

Because of his condition, an electric wheelchair is the only way Johnny can get around. His old one, which he had for 11 years, has broken down and it would cost too much to fix it.

Besides, Liz says, "He only receives $28 a month and it would take a long time to pay for it. In addition, the manufacturer wants cash on delivery."

Liz and others have tried to get an electric wheelchair for Johnny — without any results.

"I called all the foundations and he just doesn't qualify," she said.

The electric wheelchair that Johnny needs has a gear shift-type instrument which enables the vehicle to move fast, slow, forward and backwards. It also has a low-back, soft leather sling-type seat which makes it more comfortable for him because he cannot separate his legs.

Johnny has been in various care homes around Detroit in his 27 years and has stayed at his present home for the past two years.

Although the brown-eyed blond Golembiewski needs an electric wheelchair, don't feel sorry for the 5-foot-7, 90-pound young man. He's a very unusual athlete.

Using a special ramp, he currently carries a 120 average in a Tuesday and Thursday bowling league. Not only that, Johnny won three first place trophies last summer at the special olympics at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

"He's also an outstanding electrician," said Liz. "He not only listens to his hi-fi equipment, he can repair it and keep it in good shape. He knows all about electronics and has even held a part-time job as an advisor in a special program in the past."

Liz said she had only seen Johnny sad a couple of times in the two years he's been at Venoy Continued Care Center.

"That's when he didn't get to go bowling," she laughed.

She mentioned another thing that proves Johnny is a regular guy.

"When he has his electric wheelchair, it's usually quite hard to find Johnny. He's out chasing the girls!"

Those who would like to contribute toward Johnny's badly needed new electric wheelchair can do so by sending a check or money order made out to: John Golembiewski, c/o Venoy Continued Care Center, 3999 S. Venoy Rd., Wayne, Michigan 48184.

"Please do not write the checks in care of the home," Mrs. Looney said, "they must be made out in John's name for him to be able to use the money."

"We thank all people in advance who donate for the electric wheelchair and hope they will do so as soon as possible because Johnny needs it right away."

'Fantastic young man'

Most people can come and go as they please but for Johnny Golembiewski, a 27-year-old quadriplegic, it's a different story. He only has use of his right hand and needs an electric, specially-equipped wheelchair to get around in. People of the area are being asked to donate towards the $775 needed for the new electric wheelchair. "Johnny's a fantastic young man and very bright," says Elizabeth Looney, show above with Golembiewski who has been at Venoy Continued Care Center, 3999 So. Wayne Rd., for two years. Johnny carries a 120-average in twice-a-week bowling and won three first place trophies in last summer's Special Olympics at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

Agency to help Sumpter

State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak, (D) 38th District, has arranged a meeting with the director of the Department of Public Health to seek answers to the problem of contaminated drinking water in areas of Sumpter Township.

Mahalak asked the assistance of Public Health Director Maurice S. Reizen to aid Sumpter Township residents who have to haul drinking water because their wells are contaminated.

"Something has to be done as quickly as possible," Mahalak said. "Residents of Sumpter Township have an intolerable water, sewage and health problem. They have foul water, inadequate sewage facilities compared with the rest of Wayne County."

Mahalak arranged the meeting with Dr. Reizen after attending a public meeting at which township residents aired complaints on wells, drinking water and drainage.

"I have asked the Michigan Department of Public Health to accelerate its assistance to the Wayne County Health Department in coming to the aid of distressed Sumpter Township residents," Mahalak said. "One of the problem areas is drainage and the director of public health has the authority to step in when this potential becomes hazardous."

"I am convinced that the Wayne County Health Department is doing what it can. Our best approach now is to get the Department of Public Health to enter the case and work with local agencies and local people in making recommendations in finding answers to the problem."

Training class set

A special training program will be started soon by Chrysler Learning Service Center to offer adults in certain categories an opportunity to learn new skills.

The name of the new program is STIP — Skills Training Improvement Program — and is available for male or female persons over 18 years of age who are unemployed or working less than 40 hours a week.

Also, those who earn less than $2.75 per hour are eligible.

Courses available include Auto Mechanics, Service Mechanics, Diesel Engine Mechanics, Transmission Mechanics, Auto Body Repair, Industrial Equipment Repair, Drafting, Welding and Machinist Apprenticeship.

The program will begin about the middle of December and applications were to be taken starting Dec. 1.

Those entering the Comprehensive testing process must pass 10th grade exams, manual dexterity test, additidual survey and a stringent.

Students will be paid $2.30 per hour while learning and $2.65 per hour starting January, 1978. ADC recipients will receive $30 a week plus their ADC benefits.

Those interested in applying should contact Phil Dunning, Chrysler Learning Service Center, at 956-1589.

'Why love God?'

By HOBART E. ASHBY

Minister
Church of Christ
Garden City

It seems incredible that man should have to be commanded to love God. Yet, over and over in both the Old and New Testaments we are asked to love Him and are admonished to not let our love for Him become weak.

In response to what the Pharisees thought was a hard question Jesus said: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul and with all thy mind; this is the first and great commandment!" (Matt. 22:37-38). First John Chapter 4 and Verse 21 says: "And this commandment have we from him, that he who loveth God love his brother also."

Aside from being commanded to love God there are a number of logical reasons for showing admination for Him. These are summed up in one short verse: "We love Him because He first loved us" (1 John 4:19). God has expressed his love in many ways. Go back and read Chapters 1 and 2 of Genesis. Just a casual reading of the account of creation reveals to us the feelings God had for his prize creation - man.

Coming into the New Testament we see that in the giving of Jesus for the sinful world an expression of love that never has been surpassed. "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life (John 3:16)." Some die for friends (John 14:13), but Jesus died for enemies (Romans 5:6-10).

Think of what God offers men today! When one completely and fully surrenders himself to God he is completely and fully forgiven his sins. He has a new slate upon which to begin a new record. After his conversion, the apostle Paul looked back on his former life and said he was the chief sinner (1 Tim. 1:15). While a sinner he was told to "arise and be baptized and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord" (Acts 22:16). In first Timothy Chapter 1 he goes into detail to point out that Jesus came to save sinners and declares that "the grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant, with faith and love which is in Christ Jesus (Verse 14)". When Saul of Tarsus became a believer in Jesus as God's Son, repented of his sins and was baptized for the remissions of sins he was forgiven. He became a new creature (2 Cor. 5:17).

God offers the same forgiveness to any sinner today who will believe, repent and be baptized. Couple with forgiveness the fellowship and loving provisions and care shown toward us, and realize that these things are offered us now, (See 1 John 1:7 and Matt. 6:33).

But the expressions of God's love for man do not end with this life. The promises of the future life are really beyond anything we could hardly expect. One of the most comforting passages is found in Mark 10:30. Not only will we have in this world houses, brethren, sisters, children, lands and persecutions, but in the world to come eternal life. Jesus in speaking of the righteous said: "And these shall go into Life Eternal (Matt. 25:46)." He comforted his disciples by promising a mansion (John 14:1-3). John says we will have a home where there will be only joy, peace, happiness and bliss (Rev. 21).

We ought to love God so we can go to heaven and miss hell! My obedience to God is the proof of my love. "For this is the love of God, that we keep His commandments. And His commandments are not grievous (1 John 5:3)." It is never a task to obey the one we love. Genuine love makes life's load easy and light to bear.

Someone has said: "Were we perfect, we should not find God's requirements to be commands at all; they would be our natural impulses."

On that first Holy Night so long ago, there rang out good tidings of great joy that resound now in the hearts of all men of good will.

BENEFITS OF MOURNING CUSTOMS

Attending a wake, making a condolence call, offering help to the bereaved — all are two-way acts of caregiving.

These mourning practices directly benefit the bereaved family and one's self. In her book, "Death, the Final Stage of Growth," Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross advises that the purpose of mourning should be to allow for a full outpouring of grief. Mourning becomes the opportunity for the family to regroup after the loss of a member, especially to be able, then, to continue living, loving, working and enjoying one and other.

By getting this outpouring of grief early, we help to prevent pent-up feelings of guilt and regret from blossoming later with psychologically unhealthy repercussions. "Getting it out of your system" as soon as possible is appropriate therapy in most instances, experts agree.

This is one of a series of brief articles we hope will be helpful. You may ask us questions for yourself and of public interest.

Lewis serves on panel

Arthur M. Lewis, the director of the Wayne County Office of Manpower, has been elected to serve as the National Association of County Manpower Officials' (NACMO) representative on the board of directors of NACMO's parent organization, the National Association of Counties (NACo).

The election took place at NACMO's annual conference, where manpower officials from across the nation met to discuss issues such as full employment, re-enactment of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), welfare reform and youth employment.

NACMO is one of 15 NACo affiliates, each of which has a representative on NACo's Board of Directors.

NACMO's goals are to stimulate the improvement of county manpower programs through the United States, provide a forum to exchange ideas and experiences, achieve uniform implementation of policy by the Department of Labor's regional and national offices and coordinate self-help technical assistance for counties.

Lewis has been director of Wayne County's Office of Manpower since its creation in 1973. He also has served as administrative assistant for Wayne County's Office of Program Development and Coordination.

Party to help starving

NOTE: This is an open message to Western Wayne County residents from the Rev. Ray Gulick, pastor of the Haggerty Road Baptist Mission of Canton Township. Hi, Everybody!

Christmas is almost here, and we are going to have a big birthday party. Each one of you and all your families are invited. Who's it for, you ask. For Jesus, whose birthday we celebrate on Dec. 25, Christmas. Yes, Jesus, God's only begotten Son that "whosoever believeth in him, should not perish, but have everlasting life. (Luke 2:11)" "For unto us is born this day in the City of David a saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

As we think about gifts at Christmastime, let us think of God's love for us, His grace and mercy. Let us give "thanks unto God for his unspeakable gifts. (II Cor. 9:15)"

There was no room for Christ at the inn, is there any room in your heart and life for him? How long has it been since you thought about God? Is he on your Christmas list?

Come to the birthday party, and bring a gift to Jesus, or send it to the Haggerty Road Baptist Mission. All gifts will go to help feed the hungry of the world. Of the 460 million people who actually are starving, one half are children under the age of five.

Jesus said in Mark 6:37: "He answered and said unto them, 'Give you them to eat'."

An estimated 12,000 people die from starvation or related diseases each day.

(I Chronicles 16:29): "Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name; bring an offering and come before him; worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness." "The more we give the more they live"

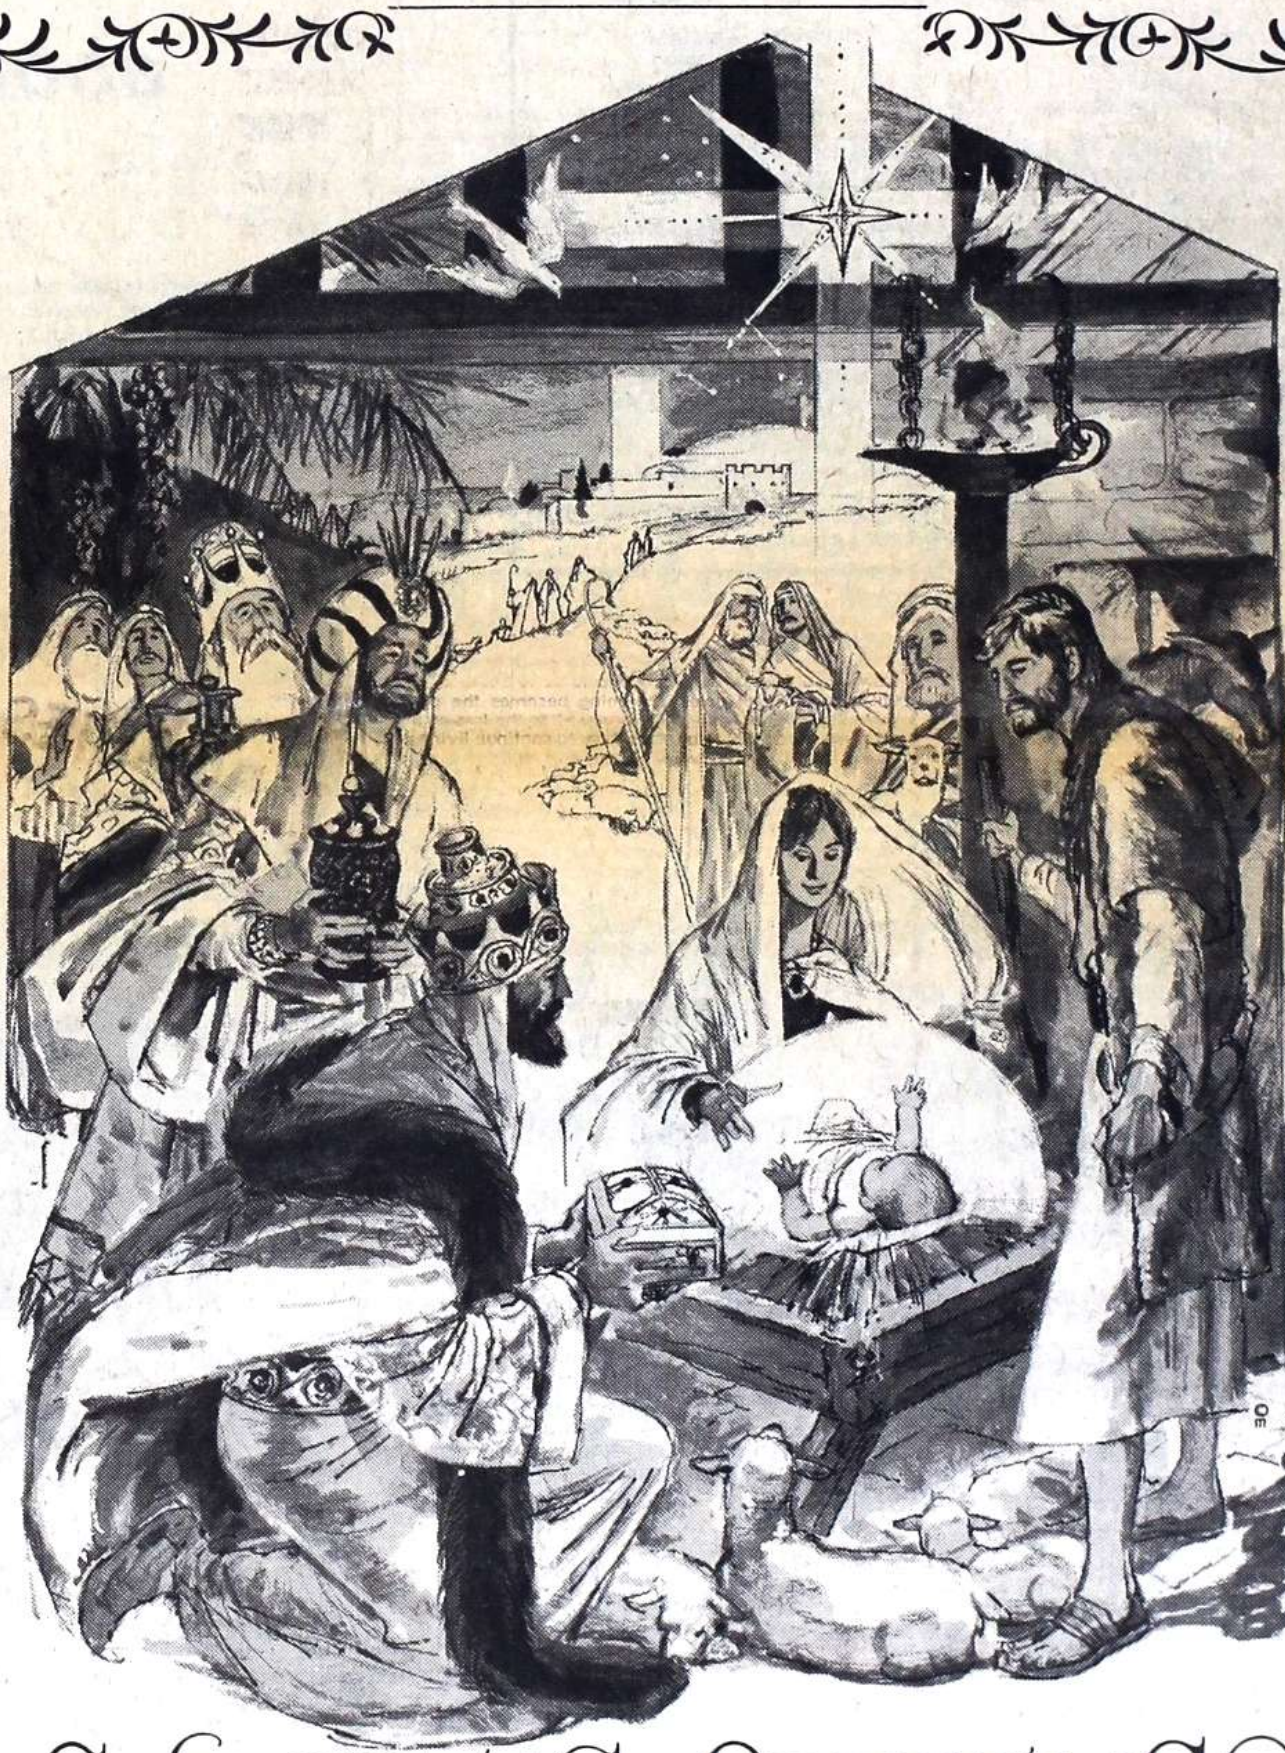

And if you have no gift, come and worship with us. (Acts 3:6) "Then Peter said 'silver and gold have I none, but such as I have I give thee."

"Wise men still seek Christ." There will be cake and ice cream for everyone. The time: 9:45 a.m. Where: Haggerty Road Baptist Mission, now meeting in the Ruth Erickson Elementary School, 1257 Haggerty Road, Canton Township, between Ford Road and Cherry Hill Road.

P.S. If you know of a needy family, let us know. We will be trying to fill baskets for some families this Christmas.

If you have some canned goods, or food that will not spoil, or if you would like to donate a turkey, ham or whatever, call Pastor Ray Gulick at 981-0416 or 421-1400.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

May the joy and peace of that first Christmas be with you and yours this season. Our wish is for all hearts to be filled with gladness, contentment and the desire for real brotherhood.

Our gratitude to the kind, generous people we serve. THE MAYOR, CLERK, TREASURER, COUNCILMEN AND ALL THE CITY EMPLOYEES WISH YOU A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS

An editorial opinion

Social Security is the job for professionals

Last week, this paper featured an editorial opinion on the subject of Social Security. It seems that at that time our lawmakers in Washington were in the throes of making a decision on how much of an increase was necessary in the Social Security tax, in order to make the system self-sufficient and solvent once again.

Our congressmen, in their collective wisdom, deemed that the Social Security system, under government control, was worth saving, no matter what it cost you and I.

Now, that is the kind of decision that we have come to expect our lawmakers to handle very well, very well indeed. If they have become proficient at anything, it is their ability to return "to the well" when the going gets tough.

Now, it could be that the American taxpayer is expecting a little too much from his elected representative when he asks or expects that representative, now paying himself over 50-grand per year, to just once put himself in the position of his constituents who are making only 15 grand.

And, indeed it is probably asking too much to expect a U.S. senator or representative to vacate their lofty position even for a minute, in order to find out what the real world is like. After all, our elected leaders have never concerned themselves with either the costs or the benefits of Social Security, having long ago voted themselves retirement benefits that would take care of them "very well" in their golden years.

As a matter of fact, our elected officials have always managed to stay one step ahead of inflation as well as personal wealth.

So, when the decision was announced that the U.S. House of Representatives, and the Senate had reached agreement on the increased Social Security tax structure, and in near record time, it came as no large surprise.

It was no surprise to learn that rather than go after the real problems associated with the program, they simply went back to the well "one more time."

The announcement in Washington that the Social Security system was once again solvent, and would be there for future generations, was good news, but would the same guarantee be applied to the U.S. work force who now must pick up the tab?

For many years, economic experts have been warning our lawmakers in Washington that the Social Security system was a mess, and that nothing short of a complete overhaul could possibly save it. For years those same experts have been warning that the Social Security system, under its present form, simply an income transferring program, could not work now, and most likely would never work.

How, did our lawmakers respond? They simply pulled out one of the props supporting the American Citizen, and used it to hold the Social Security system together for another few years.

We feel that Congress has once again "borrowed from Peter to pay Paul", and has done nothing to solve the real problem.

We call for a bold new approach to solving the inherent problems in the Social Security program.

Since it has been demonstrated very well that the federal bureaucracy is incapable of operating efficiently in programs, we suggest that our lawmakers make a commitment to turning the entire Social Security program over to the private sector.

We realize that such an action would be roughly equivalent to "leaping a tall building in a single bound", but the transition could be made over several years, with private enterprise phasing in and the government phasing out.

It is absurd that private enterprise can offer a retirement program that would quadruple the benefits that Social Security now provides, and do so at far less cost. But, even more absurd is the fact that our lawmakers have not considered giving the job of providing Social Security to the people best qualified for that job.

Bald Eagle Speaks

The minutes slowly tick by...

By BOB AMEEN

Human beings have many traits - some admirable, some nothing to write home about.

One of the least desired, but shared by almost every member of mankind, is that described in the following tale.

Only yesterday, I was waiting in front of my girlfriend's house just after getting off work. I was under the impression that I was to meet her about 5:30 p.m., allowing her ample time to get home from her job which she usually left about 4:30.

The minutes slowly ticked by; soon it was 6 o'clock and no sight of my beloved. Each second after that became interminably longer. I was angry at first, wondering how she could let me wait so long when she had promised to see me right after work. Slowly, the anger turned to frustration, because patience is not one of the virtues with which I am endowed. Then I became worried, forgetting all about being mad at her, unconsciously forgiving her for being late if she was okay, if nothing had happened to her, if she was safe and sound.

It got so, that as the time approached 6:30 p.m., I was making entreaties to the Divinity, asking that she get home all in one piece so I could greet her in my accustomed warm and gracious fashion. I made a silent vow that I would say nothing to her about being late so long as she was okay, was not involved in an auto accident, had not been accosted and robbed, etc. The list of what could have happened to her grew and grew as my thoughts raced frantically.

Finally, it got so that I would have promised giving up breathing if she would only show up.

At about half-past six, her car turned into the drive, at least an hour late. I couldn't wait for her to put the key in her front door so we could go inside. I couldn't wait for her to hang up her coat. I couldn't wait for her to sit down and talk with me over a cup of coffee in the kitchen.

What it really all boiled down to was - I couldn't wait to tell her off! I went at it like a real veteran, asking her all sorts of stupid questions. Where had she been? Who had she been with? How could she have kept me waiting when she knew I was there at her house?

I ended up accomplishing nothing more than making her quite angry at me, at having to admit that I forgot that she had told me she had a meeting after work, at having to eat crow, and finally, at having to apologize for falsely accusing her of everything but what she had really done before getting home!

Two hours later, she had cooled down enough that I succeeded in effecting a truce. Another half hour and we had made up our quarrel, or should I rightly say, my quarrel.

When I left for home that night, I somehow or the other did not feel exactly right about the whole situation, like something was missing. The feeling intensified before going to bed, and next morning, it was even worse.

That whole next day I more or less felt like a heel. By 3:15 p.m. I had called her twice at work, knowing that I must talk to her, must keep the words flowing between us, and must bring the conversation to a close on a high plateau.

I couldn't pin down that feeling that I had, this fierce desire to call her, to hear her voice, to know that everything between us was still okay, to be unable to detect a trace of hate or bitterness in her words.

As I neared the end of the second telephone call to her, a sudden realization broke through into my befuddled brain - the uncertain feeling I was experiencing, that unexplainable urge to call her - that I was suffering from that common and quite human affliction aptly called guilty conscience!

My girlfriend readily agreed when I told her that I knew what was bothering me. How else could she feel, knowing that she was in the clear and that the argument on the day before had not been of her making?

I ended the conversation as tractfully as possible, mentally swearing never to get caught in that trap again, and that if anything closely akin to it ever happened another time, that I would have all the aces at my command. Live and learn!

Editor's Log

Just a word about my staff

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

In today's column I intend to take advantage of one of the few fringe benefits that go with the managing editor's seat. I will use this space to tell you about the things that make my life worth living, and some of the things that make me want to live it better.

In the newspaper business, like law enforcement, we are forced to deal with the seamy side of life on a regular basis. But, unlike the lot of a police officer, we also are fortunate enough to be called upon during those moments of great pleasure and personal accomplishment that make life truly worth living.

When a baby gulps his first breath and lets out a scream of discomfort, we are called by the proud father.

When a sturdy son or daughter makes the honor roll, we are told about it by the overjoyed parents.

When a firefighter charges into a burning building to rescue the children huddled in fear, a proud city calls us.

When a cop brings a lost child into the station and back to the arms of frantic parents, we are told about it.

And, occasionally when we approach the level of journalistic quality that we constantly aim for, a satisfied reader will tell us about it.

But, like the police officer who must develop callousness in order to avoid the otherwise daily pain, we too develop callousness, but of another nature. Probably the greatest threat that exists to the people in the newspaper business is the threat of developing callousness on our sensitivity to the people that are the news stories that are the community.

Upon my arrival at Associated Newspapers, just about a year ago, I was fortunate to inherit a fine staff of dedicated people in the editorial department. Those people have been and are the reason for the continued growth experienced by Associated over the past year.

Without exception, they are people that are dedicated to the communities they serve, and not afraid to get involved.

Last July, visitors to the Westland Summer Festival were treated to the pleasure of a 'pie-eating contest' run by my news editor Sue McDonald and Maureen Camps, Westland-Canton staff writer.

Last June in Belleville, staff writer Jim Bradley was up to his ears in the strawberry eating contest held during the Belleville Strawberry Festival. And of course wherever you go in Western Wayne County, you are liable to run into Tom Mooradian, ANP sports editor. And how about Lothar, our ace photographer? I doubt that there has ever been another Lothar in the entire history of the human race. To meet him is to love him.

In Canton, the bouncing pony tail covering the town like a blanket, belongs to our Carrie Young. In Inkster, the smile that comes to you from behind the braces belongs to Durene Butler. Durene, the newest addition to the ANP staff, is currently discovering that college journalism should be left in college.

And Bob Ameen, a guy that can do just about anything and do it well.

These are the people that are responsible for the ever-improving and growing newspapers that make up Associated. And these are the people that attempt to keep 'goodwill toward man' dusted and polished through the year.

I am proud of my editorial staff. They are a part of the reason that I look forward to the next year with even more enthusiasm.

Health Beat

Tiny tears reflect our wealth proud, and a daughter-in-law who is a priceless jewel.

And there's much more. I have good health, reasonable intelligence, an excellent job, protection from the elements in the form of my home, food, clothing, and friendship of many people whom I've been fortunate enough to meet and work with over the years.

I can remember last Christmas when my wife was in the hospital for almost two weeks. Christmas morning I sat in our empty living room looking at the tree I had put up myself. I began to cover myself with a blanket of self pity. But then I began to put things in proper perspective. Donna had come through the surgery, and would soon be home. I was going to see her that day, and we'd celebrate in her hospital room. You are still a lucky guy, Tuttle.

I walk into the offices of Associated Newspapers, and the many delightful people in the Classified Department smile and say 'Hi'. I enter the newsroom and am able to swap greetings with Tom and Jim and Maureen and Sue and Denny and Bob and sometimes have the opportunity to talk with Dave Willett, the man who owns the six newspapers. It's comforting to know that these people who are so important to me and the business I'm in, can and will take the time to talk strictly as friends. Again, I'm a lucky guy.

During my earlier years in Nankin Township and the City of Westland, I had chartered a course through the local political scene. I'm no longer active in civic affairs, but some of the friendships I Christmas, for some, is the celebration of the birth of Jesus Christ, the man-god. To others, Christmas is only a time to carouse and in general make fools of themselves at office parties. And then to still others, Christmas is the time for serious contemplation - a time to review the past year and think about how things ought to be done in the coming year.

As I sat thinking about this piece, several things came to mind. I was reminded of something I saw some years ago in one of the PCHA hospitals. It was just three days before Christmas, and a little girl sat in an ER, striving mightily to maintain her composure and simultaneously comfort her even younger sister.

She clearly was not from a rich family, and her skimpy clothing did little, I'm afraid, to ward off the December winds. She had been crying; you could see the dried tear-streaks as they had run down her cheeks. A nurse sat with her, holding her hand and fighting back her own tears. You see, that little girl had just been told that her mother had died. The father had left the family years before. Now, at Christmas, two little girls had lost the only thing in this world that had any real meaning for them.

There are times when I recall those little girls and that pitiful scene. I wonder where they have gone...what's been their path in life...how is this Christmas going to be?

Then I think Tuttle, I say, you are one pretty lucky person. You have a loving wife, a son of whom you can be infinitely made remain to this day. I can break bread with some very powerful people, or lift a glass in toast, and know that the relationship is one of friendship and not political necessity. It's a nice feeling.

Many of us cursed the snow last week because it made driving difficult. I would submit, however, that it's preferable to have an automobile to drive than it is to be so poor that private transportation is beyond one's means.

I'm again resolving to reduce the girth of my waist, and I feel ashamed. I feel that way because I remember one Christmas about 10 years ago when Donna and I delivered a Goodfellows package to a young woman in Westland whose husband was in the Veterans Hospital. She had a little boy to feed, she was pregnant, and there was no money in her home. When we opened her refrigerator to start laying in the foods, we saw that it was absolutely empty. She turned to us to say thanks, and tears flooded down her face. If you want to feel sorry for yourself, well, just don't.

I'll stop this rambling now and wish to all the very best for the coming year. And I'll offer in print the prayer that I so often say when I think of the two little girls in the ER.

"Wherever you may be, it is my fervent hope that you've been able to overcome the trauma you experienced in losing your mother. And may you grow up to accept your fate and make the best of whatever is your lot in life.

"God bless you, little ones, God bless you."

From the State House

Health code represents a significant achievement

From all indications, it appears that the Legislature will complete work on the public health code revision project in 1978, a feat which undoubtedly will be listed among the 79th Legislature's major accomplishments.

One of the reasons enactment of the new health code represents a significant achievement in that it would entitle all Michigan residents to certain basic health services. Furthermore, aside from provisions which would ensure that all taxpayers would receive at least a minimal level of medical attention, the overall effect of the legislation would be to increase the level of health of Michigan citizens by updating the state's system of delivering quality services.

Basically, the legislation (House Bill 4070) cogently organizes and modernizes current state laws relating to public health. It eliminates many obsolete and conflicting public health laws, some of which have been in effect since early in the state's history.

The comprehensive 450-page bill clarifies health codes which have been previously enacted into law, sometimes on a piecemeal basis, and unifies statutes ranging from those which regulate health care professionals to those which pertain to the control of disease and disability.

One of the bill's most significant features is its emphasis on guaranteeing health care for all citizens regardless of their ability to pay. Ensuring that citizens are provided adequate medical services is a goal governmental leaders at both the state and federal levels have been making a concerted effort to achieve in recent years.

A growing number of government officials and health care professionals have come to believe that health is a right and not a special privilege. Government Medicare and Medicaid programs already are providing health services to senior citizens and the needy, but we can do more to better provide public health.

The legislation now being considered by the Legislature would require the state to establish on an annual basis a list of basic health services which would be provided to all citizens. The state would be required to share the cost of providing those services with local health departments.

Examples of basic health services include immunization programs, drug abuse programs, pre-natal care programs and screening for various diseases. Exactly which services would be offered would depend on a variety of factors including public needs and the financial resources of government.

It should also be noted that the proposed health code also would make the state's health care regulatory system more consumer-oriented and cost-conscious.

It would put more consumers on professional licensing boards, require competency tests for licensed professionals, strengthen complaint investigations and broaden the state's authority to discourage construction of unnecessary medical facilities.

The legislation has been approved by the House and Senate Health, Social Services and Retirement Committee. It now appears that the full Senate will review it early in 1978, and final legislative approval will follow.

Writing the bill has been an extensive process, taking more than three years.

Originally, two committees, one selected by the Governor and the other by the

The Majority Leader
State Senator William Faust
13th District

Legislature were formed to undertake the project. Public hearings were held across the state, and a final report — based on input from health care professionals, citizens and legislators — was drafted recommending legislation be taken up by the Legislature.

We're now near the final step of the journey and stand at the threshold of establishing better health care for all citizens in Michigan.

Reflections

Tracing our roots can obliterate resentment

While the winds howled and the snow piled high against the doors, the whole town was huddled in blankets before a roaring fire, watching "Roots."

What an impact! One man, in tracing his family's roots, brought to the black Americans something that sociologists have long said was the dominant factor the people as one race needed...a sense of their history...a pride of their history.

Haley showed in his novel, and it was aptly portrayed in the movie, the courage, the love and loyalty, the ingenuity and the pride in one family whose American founder had been wrested away from his native land and subjected to the cruelty that man has shown man all down through history.

If each white and each black in this country had watched "Roots" and UNDERSTOOD the message woven through its entirety, it could be the most beneficial thing that has ever happened to our country and to us as the people.

Dr. Carl Jung said a long time ago that man could be motivated by the collective unconscious; that each man carries in his unconscious the ancestral memory; the hurts; the grievances; the joys and the hopes.

If this is true, then each black in America carries within him the ancestral memory of those days. And he is motivated by those memories, even though he is unaware of them.

And each white person, whose roots lie in America during that period, must carry within him the memory; the sense of guilt; the outrage and the anger for the deeds which were perpetrated by his own kin.

It was a period of shame; a period that most of us would like to forget or excuse by saying we weren't a part of that period.

But we were. The memory of all that happened at that time lies in our unconscious and as we work it out we must be aware of what is motivating us. If both blacks and whites understand these motivations, and if we could all act on them in a way in which we can obliterate the resentment, the guilt, the anger and the unconscious need to vindicate ourselves, we have a chance to make our country really one in unity and peace.

Social Security: A tough one to call

By RICHARD L. LESHER

One of the endlessly fascinating variations of the legislative game is to take a bill that is symbolically important, but bad, remove the stuffing and pass the shell. Thus, the symbol is preserved, the harm that might be done is minimized, and those groups that supported the original bill can devote themselves to putting the stuffing back a piece at a time through future legislation.

The revived Humphrey-Hawkins bill is a perfect illustration of this process.

The original Humphrey-Hawkins bill would have frightened even GOSPLAN, the agency responsible for mismanaging the entire Russian economy. It contemplated central economic planning, wage-price controls, an impossible-to-meet level of 3 percent unemployment, and public service jobs for all who need one, at rates of pay above that available in private industry.

Those goals sound public-spirited enough. But no one knows how to attain them, and the price of trying would probably be the destruction of our economy. There are certain grim tradeoffs that we haven't learned how to avoid. Among them:

—Lowering unemployment below its "normal" level (now believed to be about 5.5 percent) tends to increase inflation, because wages are bid up by employers competing for scarce labor.

—Expensive new government programs, such as public service jobs, either increase inflation or raise taxes. And tax increases tend to cause unemployment, because less money is left in private hands to create new jobs.

—Attempts to fight inflation by wage-price controls tend to cause shortages. Eventually, shortages cause unemployment and blackmarkets.

All of this — and more — was the promise of the original Humphrey-Hawkins bill.

But now there is a new Humphrey-Hawkins bill. It is guaranteed to be milder than any other leading brand, get teeth whiter than white, leave no dulling soap film, and go 30 percent farther on a gallon of gas.

Its unemployment target is 4 percent, rather than 3 percent. Its timetable for reaching that level is five years, rather than 18 months. It disavows economic planning and directs the President to draw up an economic plan; it forces him to increase employment and lower inflation simultaneously, but doesn't say how; it favors removing obstacles to capital formation, but does not remove any.

At best, it won't solve the unemployment problem. At worst, it might push inflation into the 10-20 percent range and require tax increases of at least 1500 per family. The outcome would depend on two factors: (1) How seriously the President tries to achieve its goal of 4 percent employment, and by what means. (2) How successful its proponents are at putting the stuffing back in.

Our unemployment problem is aggravated by three factors. The first is the unprecedented surge of women into the workforce, the second is a very high rate of joblessness among black teenagers, and the third is a series of welfare programs that reduce incentives to be productively employed. Underlying these superficial factors is a bewildering array of government tax and regulatory policies that inhibit capital formation and investment, the ultimate source of all new jobs.

Given a little enlightened help — or even the absence of government interference — the private economy will generate jobs for all who are capable of filling them. Seven million new jobs have been created in the last two-and-a-half years alone.

For those who are not capable or not willing, the answer is job training and welfare reform. It would also help if we didn't increase the minimum wage to levels that price the unskilled out of the market.

As the Washington Post puts it, "The remedy for unemployment is the slow, tedious process of lifting the pace of economic growth. That's doing it the hard way, but there isn't any other way."

During winter season

Metroparks: Area's popular playground

Among the most popular winter playgrounds in southeastern Michigan are the Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority's metroparks, serving the citizens of Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Livingston and Washtenaw counties.

Because snow and ice conditions vary from day to day, persons are advised to contact the metropark of their choice prior to any winter sports participation. The parks and their respective facilities are listed below.

Effective Jan. 1, vehicle entry permits will be required year-round. They cost $5 for an annual permit, $1 for a daily permit and $1 for senior citizens.

LOWER HURON METROPARK near Belleville offers cross country skiing, sledding or tobogganing on moderate slopes and ice skating.

Three natural rink surfaces are provided at inter-connected ponds, located in a ravine where skating is permitted until 10 p.m. daily, weather permitting. Lights and wood for rinkside fires are provided, and there are heated restrooms nearby. The park entrance is on Hannan Road, a quarter mile south of Huron River Drive via the Haggerty Road Interchange along the Edsel Ford (I-94) Freeway between Detroit Metropolitan Airport and the Belleville exit.

Park hours are daylight to 10 p.m. For ice and snow conditions call 697-9181 (Belleville).

WILLOW METROPARK near New Boston and Flat Rock features cross country skiing, sledding and tobogganing on moderate slopes.

The most ideal location for sledding and tobogganing is at the Chestnut Picnic Area. There are no specially developed runs for tobogganing, but with proper snow cover, the hill is excellent. Nearby there are heated restrooms. The park entrance is along Willow Road.

Park hours are daylight to 10 p.m. For snow conditions call 697-9181 (Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville).

HUDSON MILLS METROPARK, located 12½ miles northwest of Ann Arbor and near the Village of Dexter, has excellent terrain for cross country skiing.

This is the primary winter attraction at the park and there are no specially developed trails, however, the scenic qualities of the park make it a wonderful spot for this fast-growing sport.

The nature trail is open year-around for self-guided hikes. Hudson Mills Metropark is an excellent spot for winter photography, especially at the rapids near the North Territorial Road bridge or at other scenic locations within the park.

Park hours are 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. For information contact Hudson Mills Metropark, 8801 N. Territorial Road, Dexter, 48130 or at 426-8211 (Dexter).

METRO BEACH METROPARK near Mt. Clemens on Lake St. Clair is a good perch fishing site, with fishermen using the canals, boat basin, Black Creek and Lake St. Clair for ice fishing.

Ice skating facilities include general skating, located directly in front of the food bar and hockey rinks located in the Boat Basins. The food bar site has a warming shelter, restrooms and wind-break. The park's 6,000-car parking lot provides ample space for thousands of patrons seeking winter recreation. Heated restrooms are provided at the South Marina Building and at the North Marina.

Weather permitting, the lighted general ice skating hours are 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, while hockey rink hours are 10 a.m. to dusk, with a one-hour limit on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays (no reservations are available). Coin-operated lockers are available for clothes checking. The food bar is open Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Park hours are 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

For snow and ice conditions contact Metro Beach Metropark at 963-3022 (Detroit Line) or 463-4581 (Mt. Clemens).

KENSINGTON METROPARK near Milford, one of the most popular of winter playgrounds in southeastern Michigan, has facilities for ice skating, tobogganing, sledding, cross country skiing, and ski rentals, ice fishing, nature hikes and photography.

General skating and hockey rinks are located on Kent Lake in front of the Boat Rental Building, with skating hours from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. (weather permitting). The building has a heated lounge, fireplace, restrooms and food service. Building hours are Saturdays, Sundays and holidays 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Monday through Friday 2 p.m. to 9 p.m. (and daily during the Christmas vacation period Dec. 26 through Jan. 2).

The hilly slopes at the toboggan area are ideal for sledding and tobogganing, with five toboggan runs and a separate area for sledding. A nearby shelter has a fireplace and tables for snacks. Hours daily are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. (weather permitting).

Cross-country skiing is very popular in Kensington Metropark with miles of trails covering all types of terrain radiating from the ski touring center. Skiing is also permitted on the golf course, where the wide open space makes it appealing for the novice skier of all ages.

Cross-country ski rental service will be offered at the Ski Touring Center (located at the golf course starter building), with complete rental equipment offered by Raupp Campfitters Inc., in conjunction with the Huron-Clinton Metropark system.

Hundreds of fishing shanties will dot Kent Lake during the peak winter months as fishermen try to catch bluegills, crappies or pike.

The nature trails are open year-around, with bird feeding stations and animal tracks of special interest in the winter. Photography is an outdoor challenge.

Park hours are 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. For ice and snow conditions contact Kensington Metropark at (Milford).

STONY CREEK METROPARK near Rochester and Utica features a wide variety of facilities for winter sports, including ice fishing, ice skating, sledding, tobogganing, cross country skiing and ski rental service.

Fishermen like to test their skill at catching panfish, bass or pike that inhabit Stony Creek Lake. Ice fishing shanties, if left overnight on Stony Creek Lake, must be registered with the park office.

Ice fishing is available on Stony Creek Lake at the Boat launching site, with the site providing a heated restroom. The building at the boat launching site serves as a warming shelter and has vending machines for snacks available weekdays plus food service on weekends, holidays or Christmas vacation period.

The nature trails are open year-around and of special interest for many visitors are the winter bird feeding stations and animal tracks. Photography is popular throughout the park in all seasons.

Park hours are 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. For ice and snow conditions contact Stony Creek Metropark call 781-4242 (Washington Exchange).

Change sought in law

Legislation to upgrade Michigan's nursing home laws (Senate Bill 659) has been reported out of the Senate Committee on Health, Social Services and Retirement.

Committee Chairman John R. Otterbacher (D-Grand Rapids) said the bill is the end result of a 2½-year investigation of the nursing home industry.

Otterbacher, who headed the Special Senate Committee to Investigate Nursing Homes, is the chief sponsor of the bill.

The Grand Rapids Democrat said the Health, Social Services and Retirement Committee has been considering the proposed legislation for the past 3½ months.

Otterbacher praised the willingness of various interests to work toward sometimes exhaustive solutions to complex problems presented by the legislation.

"We had more than 300 organizations representing 1,000,000 persons statewide in support of Senate Bill 659," Otterbacher said.

The Grand Rapids Democrat said the main provisions of the measure focused on:

ANTI-ABUSE PROVISIONS

It contains strong prohibitions against physical, mental, and emotional mistreatment or harmful neglect of patients. It requires under law the reporting of all suspected abuse to the Department of Public Health.

It forbids the owner, administrator, or employee of a nursing home from acting as a guardian or trustee of a patient's estate. It requires the nursing home to provide safekeeping for the personal effects and funds of patients.

It allows the court to place in emergency receivership a nursing home where there is a finding that the immediate health or safety of patients is threatened.

MEDICAL TREATMENT

It requires the Department of Public Health to promulgate rules and standards for nursing home health care and to regularly evaluate the quality of that care.

It requires the nursing home to notify the next of kin when the patient's medical condition is such that his or her life is threatened.

It requires all nursing homes to have formalized plans for immediate access to hospitals in emergencies.

It requires the Department of Public Health to promulgate rules for the safe and orderly transfer of patients from nursing homes to any other facility.

PATIENTS' RIGHTS

It provides an appeal procedure, if a patient disagrees with a transfer, except for medical cause or failure of a contracting party to pay charges.

It prohibits a nursing home owner, administrator or employee from interfering with a patient's right to bring administrative, civil or criminal action against a nursing home.

It requires a complete investigation of all complaints by nursing home patients or their representatives. It ensures the protection of the identity of the complainant in order to avoid any possible retribution.

OWNERSHIP PROVISIONS

It requires the disclosure of ownership interests in nursing homes in order to establish accountability and potential conflict of interest.

It requires all nursing homes with 50 or more beds to have a full time administrator.

It allows the Department of Public Health to deny a license to those who have a history of failure to comply with departmental orders, have a record of chronic financial mismanagement, or have a criminal record that would adversely impact on their ability to operate a nursing home.

It allows for issuance of a non-renewable provisional license for one year, with a one-year extension.

ANTI-FRAUD PROVISIONS

It makes it illegal for a nursing home to use false or misleading information either in advertising or in applying for state licensure and certification.

It requires that a formal contract be executed between the nursing home and the patient which specifies the accommodations and services to be provided and the charges for each.

STAFFING STANDARDS

It upgrades the professional staffing standards, requiring that a registered nurse be director of nursing and that at least one licensed nurse be on duty at all times.

It requires at least 2.25 hours of nursing care per patient per day, and establishes fines for violations of staffing standards.

It requires the Department of Public Health to develop a curriculum for the training of nursing home aides and to regularly administer random competency examinations of aides.

It requires a staff ratio of eight to one during the day, and 20 to one in the night.

It requires all nursing homes to employ a licensed mental health professional to serve the mental health needs of the patients.

QUALITY OF CARE

It requires at least one unannounced inspection visit a year, other than the annual licensure and certification inspections. It allows right of entry to representatives of the Department of Public Health, the state Fire Marshall, and the Office of Services to the Aging.

It requires the Department of Public Health to provide all nursing homes professional advice and consultation related to quality of institutional care.

PENALTIES FOR ABUSE

It provides financial penalties for violation of patients' rights.

It requires the forwarding of all information regarding professional violations to the board of the appropriate state professional licensing agency.

It requires the Department of Public Health to provide to the media every three months a list of licensees who are in violation of this act.

First across-nation freeway

I-75 north-south connection completed

When a 17-mile stretch of I-75 opens above Atlanta, Ga., today, Michigan will be the northern end of the first complete across-the-nation freeway making travel five times safer and twice as efficient when compared with the trunkline system it replaces, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

I-75 was paid for entirely by motorists, with 90 percent of the money from the Federal Highway Trust Fund and the remainder from state gas taxes.

"If there were no I-75 today, many Michigan motorists driving to Florida on two- and four-lane highways would pay up to $257 more round trip for fuel, food and lodging, while spending up to two more days on the road each way," said Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager.

Instead, the 1.4 million Michiganders who annually drive to Florida should find I-75 one of the most economical and safest routes to the Sunshine State.

Auto Club stated that compared with highways now paralleling the 1,563-mile interstate road from Sault Ste. Marie to Tampa, I-75 has a death rate nearly five times lower, with an annual savings of 800 lives.

"Drivers no longer will have to spend added time and fuel traveling through cities and villages and over mountains which can be hazardous in winter," Ratke said.

Auto Club calculates that I-75 saves about $47 in fuel, $102 in food and $108 in lodging than if a motoring couple drove the same roads used before 1956, when the interstate system was enacted.

The highway also fulfilled a 66-year dream for a safe and efficient north-south auto route conceived first in 1911 by Col. William S. Gilbreath, who later became executive vice-president of the Auto Club.

After learning of a 14-day auto trip where mules and block and tackle were used to help ford swollen rivers and pull cars along quagmire-like trails, Gilbreath toured the six states along the route. He convinced individual counties in each state that a drivable highway system was needed.

By 1925, Gilbreath's dream became reality, when, as an Auto Club director, he saw the opening of the 1,500-mile-long "Dixie Highway." Before the "Dixie Highway" was completed, Michiganders often traveled circuitous routes to Florida. Capsulized route accounts tell of narrow bridges, and, on at least one stretch, almost two dozen one-lane bridges in Ohio and Kentucky.

Travelers through Georgia and Florida were warned to be alert for stray cattle roaming major highways at night through "open range" areas.

Today's Dix-Toledo Road in southeast Michigan's Wayne and Monroe counties was part of Gilbreath's nation-long system. A 25-mile stretch of Dix-Toledo Road between Rockwood and Monroe at the Ohio border became the first section of I-75 in Michigan when it was renamed in 1956. The last portion of I-75 to open in Michigan was in 1975 between West Branch and Roscommon.

Today, Michigan contains 393 miles of I-75, giving this state 25 percent and the largest share of the national total for that road. Georgia has 355 miles, Florida 278, Ohio 211, Kentucky 184 and Tennessee 142.

Construction of I-75 in Michigan cost $915 million, with the entire road costing $3.4 billion.

Under House proposal

Court may try juveniles for violent crimes

Legislation which would give the circuit court authority to try juveniles who are accused of violent crimes as adults has been introduced in the Michigan House of Representatives.

Sponsored by State Rep. Robert Law (R-36th District), the measure gives the circuit court jurisdiction over juveniles 15 years and older who are accused of the violent felonies of murder, criminal sexual conduct of the first and second degree, kidnapping, armed robbery or assault.

According to the provisions of the bill, the circuit court would be required to conduct a full investigation and hearing on the crime. The court then could waive jurisdiction and remand the child to the juvenile division of the Probate Court. If the court does not waive jurisdiction, the child would then be tried in adult criminal court.

"This bill focuses on the problem of how we handle the growing violence repeatedly exhibited among juveniles in our society," Law said. "Present estimates are that one-third to 40 percent of all felonies are now committed by juveniles."

"Presently, these youths are under the jurisdiction of the Probate Court. I think it is time we made a distinction between violent crimes committed by juveniles and lesser offenses which don't justify adult punishment, and then try the cases accordingly."

"My bill removes violent juvenile offenders from the authority of the Probate Court. But at the same time, it leaves room for mitigating circumstances under which the adult court may decide the child is better off in the juvenile division of the Probate Court," he continued. "The growing legal trend is to try more of these kids as adults when they have committed vicious acts that would be considered serious felonies if they were adults."

The bill would require the circuit court to give a notice of a probable cause hearing to decide the question of waiver to the child, his parents or guardians and the prosecuting attorney. The notice would clearly state the child is subject to waiver of jurisdiction and, if the court does not issue a waiver, he will be tried as an adult.

"During this hearing," Law said,

"The court will determine whether probable cause exists to believe a violent felony was committed and that the accused child committed it," Law said.

In deciding whether or not to waive the child, Law explained the court would be charged with con-character of the child, including physical and mental maturity and lifestyle; the seriousness of the offense, and whether there is evidence the child could not be rehabilitated under juvenile programs; the suitability of programs and facilities available to the circuit court; the child's mental competence; and whether the public safety and welfare require that the child stand trial as an adult.

The circuit court would appoint legal counsel for the child, if counsel had not been retained, and the court could assess the costs of providing an attorney to the child or his parents and guardians.

Greetings to All

We cheerfully extend happy holiday wishes to everyone and we thank you for your kind patronage.

Village 'decks halls'

The joys of an old fashioned Christmas will have a mixture of holiday and history now through the New Year.

The village and museum will be sporting authentically re-created adornments, beautiful arrangements of fruit and greenery and special details of Early American holidays to set the mood for visitors.

A fruit pyramid, cedar roping, wild game — feathers and all — a carpet tablecloth and a fertility wreath of grain are only part of what will greet visitors during the holiday season.

At the village there are sleigh ride (when there is snow), with shuttles from the gatehouse for 50 cents per person. On no snow days, carriage rides will be substituted. Sleigh tours cost $2 for a 45-minute trip, and a ride on the century-old train cost $1 per person.

Also in the village is bread and cookie baking at the bakery, mince-meat tarts at the Stephen Foster birthplace and candy making in the Edison homestead. Fireplace cooking will be demonstrated at the Cotswold Cottage, with the crafts area showing off work with herbs, weaving, tin, pewter, pottery, leather, spinning and carding, fine jewelry, glass blowing, rug hooking, wrought iron, candle dipping, tin-type photography, broom making and barrel and bucket making.

Crafts on display in the museum include toy making, lace, macrame, crewel embroidery, doll making, quilting, mechanical knitting, cookie baking, broom making, candle making, glass blowing, weaving, Christmas card printing, basket weaving, decorated tinware and wreath making.

Nearly 40 choirs will be visiting the village and museum through Christmas Eve, with regular village performances set from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. At the museum 15-minute performances will be at 11:30 a.m., 12:30, 1 and 2 p.m. The exceptions are Dec. 22 when the museum performances will be at 12:30, 1 and 2 p.m. and at 12 noon and 1 p.m. Dec. 23. In the village the Dec. 23 singing will be from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Pro-Am contest aired

"National Pro-Am Racquetball," a fast-moving one-hour sports special on the nation's fastest growing sport, will be shown on Channel 56 Jan. 1, at 6 p.m.

The nation's top amateurs and professionals, including Rochester's Kathy Williams, competed in the pro-am tournament at King's Racquetball Court in Westminster, Calif. last November. This match is one of 11 that will lead up to the national championship playoffs next June in Detroit.

Both men's and women's events will be highlighted as they competed in the grueling racquetball duels for $15,000 in prizes.

The growth of racquetball popularity has been phenomenal. In 1970 there were approximately 50,000 players in the country. Now an estimated four million people are involved in the sport. Racquetball also has proved to have wide appeal as 35 per cent of the participants are women.

VAN BUREN PUBLIC SCHOOLS MINUTES

Minutes of the Board of Education
REGULAR MEETING
November 14, 1977

The Regular Meeting of the Van Buren Board of Education was held in the High School Auditorium on Monday, November 14, 1977 at 8:00 p.m.

Members present: Doris Roe, Ronald Tocco, Charles Paas, Richard Muse, and Robert Cook. Absent: James Sayre and William McCollum. Also present were Superintendent Dale Kaulitz, Director of Instruction Douglas Brown, Director of Business Affairs Jack Hosmer, and Director of Personnel Raymond Kohr.

President Roe called the meeting to order at 8:10 p.m. The minutes of the regular meeting of October 10, 1977 were reviewed and approved as printed.

Mr. Michael Misna was present and discussed the proposed School District Advisory Council which they would like to form consisting of twelve people to be a communication link between the community and the Board. They will try to determine why we cannot pass millages, study school records, give a thorough study to current problems and what to do to solve them, and give the voting public a chance to express their concerns regarding any area that they feel there is mismanagement and the council will check into it for answers. Their hope is to stop rumors with facts. Motion by Robert Cook, supported by Richard Muse, to approve offer of the School District Advisory Council to form and study current school problems with Mr. Michael Misna as chairman. Motion carried.

Budget discussion was held. Motion by Charles Paas, supported by Ronald Tocco, to keep programs we have now subject to thorough Board study and review. Board will have teams who will go through budget and decide whether reductions are in order. Motion carried. On recommendation of the Business Office, motion by Richard Muse, supported by Ronald Tocco, that:

Andrew Erhart, custodian at North Jr. High School, be granted request for termination effective November 11, 1977;

Robert Dutton, custodian at Tyler Elementary School, be granted request for termination effective October 26, 1977;

Kenneth Adams, custodian at South Jr. High School, be granted request for termination effective November 11, 1977;

Reba Hodge be hired as a full-time custodian at Tyler Elementary School effective November 15, 1977;

John Mathais be hired as a full-time custodian at the High School effective November 15, 1977;

William McCurdy be hired as a full-time custodian at South Jr. High School effective November 15, 1977;

The following bus drivers be placed on layoff status effective October 24, 1977: Donna Jeffery, Michael O'Bara, and Jean May.

Motion carried. The financial reports were reviewed. Motion by Richard Muse, supported by Ronald Tocco, that the financial reports be approved as presented. Motion carried.

The bills for the month of October were reviewed. Motion by Ronald Tocco, supported by Robert Cook, that the bills be paid as presented. Motion carried.

Jack Hosmer presented a lease agreement for Denton School for the Canton Baptist Temple Church. Term for one year commencing November 1, 1977 and expiring October 31, 1978. Motion by Ronald Tocco, supported by Charles Paas, to approve lease agreement as presented. Motion carried.

Personnel Office recommendations:

Joan Snowden, teacher at Edgemont Elementary School, be granted parental leave of absence commencing on December 23, 1977 until February 10, 1978. Motion by Ronald Tocco, supported by Richard Muse, to approve request as presented. Motion carried.

Request from Barbara Mitchell for her medical leave of absence to extend for the remainder of the current school year pending appropriate receipt of a doctor's statement indicating such a leave would be in the best interest of both parties. Motion by Richard Muse, supported by Robert Cook, to approve request as presented. Motion carried.

George Craven from Jahr Associates presented selection of colors for the high school renovation project.

Douglas Brown presented recommendations for award of bids for bid package No. 5 for high school renovation. Motion by Ronald Tocco, supported by Richard Muse, to approve award of bids as presented. Motion carried.

Letter was read from Van Buren Township requesting a commitment of $4,300. from the school district as part of a contribution between the School District, City of Belleville, and Van Buren Township to construct 5,000 feet of sidewalk from the bridge to the proposed I-94 overpass and from the overpass to McBride Street. This commitment for a sidewalk is needed before the Federal Government will release any funds for the construction of a pedestrian-bicycle overpass over I-94 at Quirk Road. Matter tabled until next meeting for further study.

Request was read from the Downriver Guidance Clinic for a contribution to the clinic of $3,024.80 (38¢ per child based on the fourth Friday membership) for school district use for the 1977-78 school year. A branch of the clinic, Steppingstone Youth Center, is currently using our Sumpter Elementary School. Motion by Charles Paas, supported by Ronald Tocco, that a letter be sent to the Downriver Guidance Clinic reminding them of our contribution of the use of Sumpter School and asking them to consider revising the contribution amount. Motion carried.

It was mentioned that some newspaper articles are reporting false information regarding the school district and that we need to appoint a public information officer to relay information to the news media. Motion by Charles Paas, supported by Ronald Tocco, to appoint Dale Kaulitz as the public information officer and letters of notification by sent to the news media. Motion carried.

Meeting adjourned at 9:45 p.m.

Jazz masters invade Ann Arbor in New Year

Such renowned jazz masters as Chick Corea, Herbie Hancock, Sam Rivers and Leroy Jenkins will be only a few to appear January through April at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Their visits are part of Eclipse Jazz's winter concert series, slated to open Jan. 26, with a twin bill of Corea and Hancock.

Eclipse Jazz is a non-profit volunteer collective, presenting jazz in Ann Arbor. It operates under the auspices of the Major Events Office and the University Activities Center and is supported in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Chick Corea hardly needs an introduction to the Ann Arbor community. He appeared there in September 1976 in a special duet performance with vibist Gary Burton, and the previous year with his well-known group Return to Forever.

Herbie Hancock also is an excellent pianist and composer. Recently, he reunited his legendary quintet from the mid-60s, featuring Freddy Hubbard, Ron Carter, Tony Williams and Wayne Shorter.

The Corea-Hancock performance will be at 8 p.m. Tickets for the Jan. 26 performance will go on sale at the Michigan Union Box Office on Jan. 17.

The next Eclipse Jazz concert will be Feb. 10-11 and will feature Sam Rivers, and Leroy Jenkins.

Rivers is a major figure in new music, composing and performing on tenor saxophone, soprano saxophone, flute and piano. His music includes a variety of elements from free jazz and bebop to big band styles. He has performed with Miles Davis, McCoy Tyner, Cecil Taylor and Charles Mingus, as well as leading his own trio.

Jenkins, who has almost single-handedly made the violin an important instrument in avant-garde jazz, appeared here solo last October in the Bright Moments Series. The co-founder of the Revolutionary Ensemble, a cooperative trio, he has performed with Archie Shepp, Cecil Taylor and Anthony Braxton.

Show time each night will be 8 p.m. Tickets will go on sale Jan. 17.

The third Eclipse Jazz concert will feature Woody Shaw at Hill Auditorium Feb. 24.

Shaw is a moving trumpet player whose styles range from bebop to free jazz. His virtuosity reflects the diversity of his background—playing with Eric Dolphy, Horace Silver, Art Blakey, Bud Powell and McCoy Turner, as well as leading his own group.

Recently he received a grant for composition from the National Endowment for the Arts and presently is working with a seven-piece concert ensemble made up of Onaje Allen Gumbs on piano, Carter Jefferson on tenor sax, Victor Louis on drums, Clint Houston on bass, Steve Turre on trombone and Jimmy Vass on alto sax.

Show time will be 8 p.m., with concert tickets going on sale Feb. 14.

The Archie Shepp Quartet will team up with the Barry Harris trio on March 17 and 18 in Rackham Auditorium as the concert series continues.

Shepp, musician, poet, playwright and actor, last appeared in Ann Arbor for the 1972 Ann Arbor Blues and Jazz Festival. He performs on tenor and soprano saxophones and piano. Along with Sam Rivers, he is one of the most important saxophonists to emerge in the '60s, following the innovations of John Coltrane and Ornette Coleman.

Harris, who is from Detroit, is a mainstream jazz pianist, composer and teacher, whose fluid and inventive system continues the traditions of Bud Powell, Thelonious Monk and Art Tatum.

He has performed with most of the major figures in jazz of the '50s and '60s, including Miles Davis, Cannonball Adderly, Sonny Stitt and Charlie Parker.

Show times both nights will be 7:30 and 10:30 p.m. Tickets will go on sale Feb. 28 at the Michigan Union Box Office.

Closing out the concert series will be the incomparable Ella Fitzgerald, who will appear April 6 at 8 p.m.

Ella is one of the great voices in the history of jazz, and she has inspired almost every singer who has followed her. Famous since the '30s, she was one of the first jazz vocalists to use her voice in the manner of other jazz instruments, using sounds and scat singing as part of her unique expression.

She has performed with Louis Armstrong, Dizzy Gillespie, Oscar Peterson and Duke Ellington.

Tickets for her concert will go on sale March 1.

Season tickets for Eclipse Jazz cost $22 and include all five concerts. They can be ordered by mail through Jan. 9, and Jan. 10 through Jan. 26 at the Michigan Union Box Office, 530 S. State, Ann Arbor. For further information call 763-1107.

Music will be by "The Bobcats". Crabbie Joe's, located at 22041 Michigan, Dearborn, will offer partygoers a choice of four different entrees plus all their favorite beverages, dancing and favors from 9 p.m. until closing for a charge of $40 per person.

The entrees include live Maine lobster, New York strip steak, prime rib of beef or broiled stuffed flounder.

There also will be an open house, with a special menu, from 4 to 8 p.m. that same day.

Reservations can be made by calling 562-4000.

At The Fogcutter in Ypsilanti, the Country Western Rhythm Band will provide the music for its New Year's Eve party.

The cost is $12 per person and will include a buffet dinner and salad bar.

Located at 3011 E. Michigan Avenue, The Fogcutter will be open from 6 p.m. to 4 a.m. For further information call 487-5122.

"The Family", featuring Micky Quatro, are at the New Carriage Wheel Lounge and will be providing the entertainment for the lounge's gala New Year's Eve party.

Food, favors and fun will be on tap.

The Carriage Wheel is located at 29447 Ford Road, Garden City. For further information call 261-1310.

And even youngsters will have a chance to welcome 1978 at a pajama party for children at the Red Bell Nursery, located on Ford Road near Wildwood in Westland.

The special all-night party will be for youngsters ages 2½ through 12 years and will run from 7 p.m. Dec. 31 through 10 a.m. Jan. 1.

Youngsters should bring along their own PJs, bedroll and toothbrush for the party.

The cost is $15 for one child and $8 for each additional child.

For reservations call 729-3434.

Show revives Kovacs' humor

The outlandish and off-beat humor of Ernie Kovacs returns to Channel 56 in 10 half-hour programs to be run on Channel 56 starting Monday at 6:30 p.m. Subsequent episodes will air each following weekday evening in the same time slot.

"The Best of Ernie Kovacs" series features tapes and films from his days in television, some of which have not been seen on television since their original broadcast in the late 1950s. Actor Jack Lemmon will open each program with introductory remarks.

David Erdman, producer of the series, sifted through literally thousands of feet of tapes and films to decide which segments would go into the shows. An even tougher task was bringing those early tapes up to a consistent broadcast quality.

The programs have been put together by Erdman in the same fashion as the shows Kovacs produced.

Erdman said: "He took such painstaking care with every detail, even to the point of throwing one-line bafflers into the closing credits, like 'Do B-57s eat their young?', that it would be criminal to tamper with the material we obtained." "When you watch 'The Best of Ernie Kovacs,'" Erdman advised, "you'll be seeing the real thing."

Why not give a year-round gift: A living plant

If someone on your Christmas list likes to raise indoor plants, consider giving a gift that will grow through the year—living plants. You can make your gift a do-it-yourself project by putting several plants together into a dish garden.

Lee Taylor, a houseplant specialist at Michigan State University, said you'll need four things to make a dish garden—a container; some gravel, sand or pieces of broken clay pot; some soil and plants.

Containers for dish gardens can be made of almost any kind of material. They should be at least three inches deep, but not more than eight inches. Generally, they should be longer and wider than they are tall.

The gravel or sand goes into the container first. For a shallow container, use a layer about three-fourths of an inch deep. Deeper containers will need a thicker layer. This material is very important, Taylor said. It holds a lot of water, so it helps keep the soil from becoming waterlogged.

The kind of soil you need depends on the kinds of plants you want to use. Taylor advised getting several plants that need the same kind of growing conditions. A dish garden of cactus and succulants—plants that like dry conditions and lots of light—or a mixture of tropical plants that like moist soil and less light will do better than a planting that mixes plants with very different needs.

For a desert dish garden, a coarse, sandy soil is best. You can make this by mixing one part houseplant potting soil, one part peat moss and two parts sand. For tropical plants, use equal parts sand, soil and peat.

Use small plants in your dish garden, Taylor suggested.

Plants grown in two-to three-inch pots are recommended because their root systems are small. You won't have to break off some of the roots and squeeze plants to make them fit if you start with small ones.

Select slow growing plants for your container garden, he advised, and don't fertilize them. Plants that grow quickly will outgrow the container in a few months and have to be taken out of it. Slow growing tropical plants for dish gardens include many ferns, bromeliads, African violets, dracena, kalanchoe, philodendrons, peperomias and snake plant. Desert plants like agave, aloe, cacti, echeveria, euphorbia, haworthia and sedum seldom outgrow their dishes.

Water the plants, take them out of their pots and try several different arrangements before you fill in around the plant roots with soil. Decide whether you want the container to be seen from one side or from all sides. This will help you decide how to arrange the plants.

For a oneside garden, Taylor suggested putting taller plants on the back side or at one end and arranging shorter plants in front or beside them. If the garden must look attractive from all sides, try placing the tallest plant in the center and grouping the shorter ones around it.

After you're satisfied with the placement of the plants, fill in around them with moist soil and press it gently around the roots.

How often you must water your dish garden depends on the kinds of plants you put in it. A desert dish garden should be allowed to get quite dry between waterings. A group of tropical plants will need water more often. Check it by touching the soil with your finger. If it feels moist, don't add water. If the top half inch of the soil is dry, add about a cup of water.

A big problem with dish gardens occurs when they get too much water, Taylor said.

When you give the for light, temperature and water are; and how dish garden to someone else, tell him or her what kinds of plants are in it; what their needs you have taken care of it. And don't be shy about saying you made it yourself. That kind of gift is always appreciated.

DVOP reaches to employ Vietnam era vets

The Disabled Veterans Outreach Program (DVOP) is a federal program that searches out disabled Vietnam era veterans and helps them find work.

And sometimes the first problem the outreach worker faces is the discouragement and disbelief of the veterans, themselves.

"Does anybody really give a damn?" one young veteran asked a DVOP outreach worker in Livonia. "Or are our problems just a good cause for other people to discuss?"

The Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC), which runs the DVOP in Michigan, has 36 DVOP workers in Wayne County, and they do a lot more than discuss. When they have identified and contacted disabled veterans, they acquaint them with the services available to them and arrange appointments with MESC staff.

MESC offices offer veterans assistance in finding work, including counseling, testing and referrals to jobs and training programs, as well as unemployment insurance benefits for those who are recently discharged. MESC offices also have Job Bank, a computerized job listing system.

MESC staff make referrals to many programs, some of which are of particular interest to veterans.

Veterans who meet the poverty level and length of unemployment requirements may be referred to Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) programs for job training and work experience. Under President Carter's economic stimulus program, public service jobs will be increased nationally to 725,000, and the Secretary of Labor has asked that 35 percent be set aside for unemployed disabled and Vietnam era veterans — if they are available to fill them.

When contacted in mid-October, the Wayne County CETA office expected 400 openings between then and the first of the year. And this office does not handle Detroit, Livonia and Dearborn, which have their own, separate CETA programs.

Both union and industrial apprenticeship programs welcome qualified Vietnam era veterans. MESC apprenticeship specialists test, counsel and refer qualified veterans to these programs.

MESC also refers economically disadvantaged youth, 16 to 21 years old, to the Job Corps. Economically disadvantaged young veterans are eligible for this program, too.

Two national programs aim specifically at the problems veterans have in finding work:

The National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB) is a partnership of business, government, labor and education. One of its primary missions is to promote the hiring and training of economically disadvantaged individuals and Vietnam era veterans by private employers. Veterans may contact these employers through MESC.

The Help Through Industry Retraining and Employment (HIRE) program went into effect in July. Under this program, the Employment and Training Administration contracts with the nation's largest firms for on-the-job training for an agreed-upon number of jobless disabled and Vietnam era veterans. So far, there have been no openings in Wayne County, but MESC will put veterans in touch with them when there are.

In the meantime, veterans are being placed. MESC placed 4,655 veterans in Wayne County between Oct. 1, 1976, and Sept. 31, 1977. Of these, 211 were disabled and 3,324 were Vietnam era veterans.

For someone with everything

A special gift: Look in the meat counter

Looking for something for last minute gifts for the holiday season? Something for the person who has everything, something more than tie or socks? Then one stop you might want to make is at the meat counter, where you'll find everyone's favorite — beef roasts and steaks as well as a variety of other meats.

If you're choosing beef as a holiday gift, select such cuts as rib roast, tenderloin roasts, porterhouse steaks or rib eye steaks. Wrap them well with a moisture vapor-proof paper, label and freeze until ready to give. When you're ready to give, overwrap the meat with gift paper and deliver to that lucky recipient.

And be sure to label, "Open Before Christmas", so the happy recipient can make plans for good eating during the holiday season.

Other favorites, such as corned beef brisket and beef salami, packaged in film, do not require freezing, if given promptly after purchase.

For the family chef, you may consider a meat thermometer. Meat thermometers insure that roasts prepared throughout the year will always be prepared just to desired doneness. Several types currently are on the market, some of which can be used in microwave ovens. Check your local appliance store or kitchen center for a good selection. You won't be disappointed you did when you enjoy delicious roast beef at the next dinner.

And for that someone who has everything, you can solve that problem simply and satisfactorily with something that they probably don't have—America's first metric beef cookbook.

The colorfully illustrated 128-page book provides a pleasant introduction to the metric system which will soon be a part of everyday life. The 101 recipes are provided in the customary measure, as well as the metric measure. Then when the big metric changeover comes, the cook will be all set to operate with grams and milliliters instead of pounds and pints.

You can obtain a copy of the American Metric Beef Cookbook by sending a check or money order for $2.50 to the Michigan Beef Industry Commission, 805 Stoddard Building, Lansing 48933. While you're at it, you might as well order one for yourself, then both you and a friend will be a step ahead and ready for the future.

Another good choice for the book rack is the just released Meat Board Meat Book.

According to Retha Hankey, director of home economics for the Michigan Beef Industry Commission: "Even the most discriminating shopper can find the trip to the meat counter a cause for confusion, frustration and sometimes irritation. If you shop for, prepare and eat meat, this book is for you."

"It is the most authoritative book ever published about meat. It is not a recipe book, but an encyclopedic reference which every consumer should have."

Not available in bookstores, the book can be ordered through the Michigan Beef Industry Commission at $4.95 for a soft cover copy and $9.95 for the hard cover edition.

Another good Christmas idea would be a carving set for those beautiful roasts at the family dining table, or for when the scene changes to backyard barbecue and you just pulled that rolled roast from the rotisserie.

There are many Christmas ideas related to that all American favorite—beef. Just let your imagination go and the recipient will certainly be glad that you did.

And a dolly, and a puppy and. . .

Youngsters from the area had the thrill of meeting and eating with Santa himself at the special Luncheon with Santa at the Western Wayne County YWCA last week.

Sikeses 30th anniversary marked at daughter's home

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sikes of Belleville were guests of honor on their 30th wedding anniversary at a party held at the Trenton home of their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Romanowski.

Their six children and mates attended the gala occasion along with a host of friends. The party was held Dec. 10.

Mrs. Marge Owen of Belleville was one of the more than 20 people attending a retirement party given in honor of Mrs. Millie Townsley of Belleville, at Win Schuler's on Dec. 10.

Mrs. Townsley had worked at Ford Motor Company, in the cafeteria for 20 years.

Huron River School Adult Education choir members, who did not participate in the trip to Detroit Monday, met with their director, Marian Spencer and accompanist, Nelda King, for a morning of Christmas singing and refreshments at the Juniper Drive home of Nellie Van Wormer. Earlier all members participated in a combined choir program with Belleville, Flat Rock, New Boston and in Wyandotte on Dec. 7 at the Huron Senior Citizens Christmas Concert.

Mr. and Mrs. John Zywicki of Belleville arrived home Dec. 12 after spending two weeks in sunny Florida. While there they visited John's sister, Mary Carter, as well as several friends. They were able to do some deep sea fishing, John catching a 10-pound king fish and Helen catching two large red snappers.

The December meeting of the Berrice Dandineau Book Club was to be held Saturday, Dec. 17. Members were to meet and dine at the Red Apple Restaurant at noon with a program following at the Main Street apartment of leader, Marian Irwin.

Because of inclement weather the regular meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club was postponed until Dec. 12. Mary Hoff, 1976-77 "Woman of the Year", gave an inspirational message, "The True Meaning of Christmas". Music was led by Alice Atwell and Helen White. The finance committee was in charge of arrangements.

Ina Baum, Jean Morris, Juanita Martin, Evelyn Griffin, Blanche Clark, Carol Stypekoski and Betty Fulton, all of the Belleville area, enjoyed dinner and an exchange of Christmas gifts at Leuthauser's in Saline on Monday, Dec. 12. Helen Zywicki was unable to attend since she was winging her way home from sunny Florida that evening.

Mrs. Muriel Smith of Liberty Street entertained at a noon luncheon on Dec. 13. Her guests were Mrs. Bruce Maslin of Ann Arbor; Mrs. Richard Zeman, Mrs. Jerry Staffeld and Mrs. Malcom McNutt, all of Romulus; Mrs. Carol Summer of Dearborn Heights and Mrs. Kenneth Spittler of Trenton.

Approximately 130 members and guests attended the Belleville Area Senior Citizen's Annual Christmas dinner catered by Lucille Remus at the First United Methodist Church on Wednesday, Dec. 14.

The Rev. Joy Arthur gave the invocation. The choir was under the direction of Mark and Kathy Rairick. The Drama Club, under the direction of Doris Corbitt, presented a skit entitled "Christmas Time."

For Home Arts members

Holiday party highlights handmade gift exchange

As has been the custom for the past few years, members of the Home Arts Club once again decided to exchange handmade or homemade gifts in lieu of dollar items at their annual Christmas party.

Opening the packages one at a time gave others a chance to view the handwork and ingenuity of their fellow clubsters. The variety and lack of repetition was rather unusual for a group of 21.

Among the hand-crafted items taken home from the party on Dec. 12 were a spice wreath, soft sculpture ornaments in colorful prints, woven hot pads, hand-tooled key case, apron with matching potholders, dried herb wreath, an angel doll fashioned from a Reader's Digest, tree ornaments, Christmas centerpiece and tree candle.

From the women's kitchens came such goodies as strawberry, grape and wine jellies, nut breads, candies and hot fudge sauce.

The club president, Charlotte Price, played hostess to the group at her home on Venetian Avenue. Along with her executive board, Betty Gott, Agnes Elliott and Frances Jobe, she served a buffet supper of hot chicken salad, molded salad, nut breads, punch, tea and coffee.

Court Whist was the evening entertainment with Avis White of the program committee in charge. Prizes went to the hostess, Toni Schwartz, Charlotte Budd, Lee Smith and Bev Eichold.

The club was happy to share the festivities with three new members: Elsie Ostrowski, Loretta Daniels and Shar Tator.

The first meeting of the new year will be held Jan. 9 in the home economics room of North Junior High School. "The French Connection", the theme for the session, will feature Larry Radick who will give a "mini" lesson in French. Members are welcome to bring guests.

Three newcomers enrolled

At their Dec. 12 meeting, Belleville Chapter 1135, Women of the Moose, enrolled three new members: Lois Anguim, sponsored by Marietta Kerner; Hazel Meixner, sponsored by Martha Morton, and Didema Webb, sponsored by Mary Frazier. The group later held its Christmas gift exchange and enjoyed refreshments.

The Friendship meeting and Christmas get-together were held Dec. 14 at the home of Fern Koeppe.

The College of Regents met Dec. 20 at the home of Martha Morton. A meeting of the board of officers is to be held Dec. 21 at the home of Helen Jacobs.

On Dec. 20 the hospital committee delivered homemade cookies to the Lexington Home for Handicapped Children.

Baskets for the needy are being readied and those with donations are to take them to the Moose Lodge, 1135 Huron River Drive, as quickly as possible so that deliveries can be made this weekend.

Plan to attend Job Finders Day at Inkster YWCA

Although January might seem far off, it is really just around the corner. So is your opportunity to start the year off on a positive note by obtaining vital information on how to get a job in the immediate future.

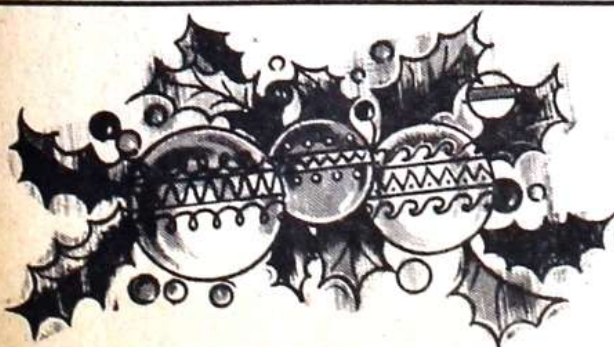

The Western Wayne County YWCA will be sponsoring a Job Finders Day on Tuesday, Jan. 17, 1978. The program, which will be held at the YWCA, 26279 Michigan Ave. Inkster, will focus on the woman who has an immediate need for a job, yet is limited by lack of skills of direction in which to turn. There will be no frills, no fancy lunches — just basic, valuable, concise information on how to obtain a job. A bag lunch may be brought.

Participants in a panel discussion will give information related to identifying community resources in assisting in the job search. Phyllis Robinson, Career Education Consultant, Wayne County Intermediate School District will moderate the panel which will include: Kenneth Schultz, related instruction coordinator, Schoolcraft Community College, "Apprenticeships and Women"; Ingrid Kroeger, Office of Vocational Rehabilitation; Camille Geratowski and Maureen Sarkses, Manpower — Vocational Education, "Information Regarding Skill Training and Employment Skills"; Monica Emerson, Chrysler Learning Center, Manpower, "Opportunities Assistance in Job Search, Job-Retention and Skill Training in Non-Traditional Jobs"; Charmaine Harris, MESC Branch Manager, "Telling the Michigan Job Service Story".

Workshops will include "Affective Interviews", presented by Ms. Doris Madar, employment and training manager, J.L. Hudson Company; "Make That First Good Impression with Application Forms", presented by Albert Martin, Ford Motor Company; "How to Assert Yourself in a Positive Manner", presented by Ms. Marilyn Hubbard, career consultant and instructor, Wayne Community College and Detroit Institute of Commerce.

Pre-registration is requested. A fee of $1. will be charged for the day. For further information please call YWCA — 561-4110.

A favorite with ham

Family reunion time during holidays signals a call for preparing all-time favorites. Baked ham and potato salad, for example, are complemented by a tart and tangy Cherry Fruit Salad. Sweet dark cherries, crushed pineapple, chopped pecans and celery are combined in cherry flavor gelatin to form a sparkling molded fruit salad. (Photo courtesy Jell-O cherry gelatine).

For your recipe file

Cherry Fruit salad

Holiday time is still family reunion time. The homecoming of a favorite son or daughter on vacation is the signal for a gathering of the clan.

No matter where these reunions occur — north, east, south, or west — you can just about bet on spotting a baked ham, potato salad, jellied salad, and of course, the favorite cake of someone near and dear. These foods are universally beloved for large family gatherings because they can all be prepared ahead and because only a real family renegade would dare dislike such all-American fare!

For such occasions, it's foolhardy to advise on ham. The Pennsylvanians will insist on the sugar-cured variety, the Southerners will demand smoked country hams and Midwesterners must have hams from corn-fed hogs.

And potato salad ranks as a family ritual, so no need to offer yet another recipe. But for the jellied salad, Cherry Fruit Salad is highly recommended for the sparkle it adds to any region's ham or any family's potato salad. Sweet dark cherries, crushed pineapple, chopped pecans and celery combine in cherry flavor gelatin for a real complement to the meal.

Cherry Fruit Salad

- 1 can (17 oz.) pitted sweet dark cherries
- 2 packages (3 oz. each) or 1 package (6 oz.) cherry flavor gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- 2 cans (8-1/4 oz. each) crushed pineapple
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans

Drain cherries, measuring syrup. Add water to syrup to make 1 cup. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add measured liquid and undrained pineapple. Chill until thickened. Stir in cherries, celery and nuts. Pour into individual molds or an 8-cup mold. Chill until firm, at least 4 hours. Unmold. Serve with lettuce or garnish with celery leaves, if desired. Makes 7 cups or 14 servings.

SEASON'S GREETINGS

Sincere and heartfelt wishes go to each and every reader of the Suburban Living pages as we prepare to celebrate another Christmas and greet a new year. My deepest appreciation is extended to all who help make these pages possible, especially all those who chair their organization's publicity committee and who faithfully submit their club's news each month.

May all the blessings of the holy season of Christmas come to you and your loved ones in lasting measure throughout the coming year.

Happy holidays—

At Romulus Library

Intrigue, suspense among novel themes

The Romulus Public Library, located at 11121 Wayne Road, has a number of new books added to its growing inventory. Several are being capslized here for those who will be visiting the library and looking for something interesting for over the holiday vacation.

"A CAPITALIST ROMANCE" by Ruth Brandon. This captivating biography and social history tells the rags-to-riches story of a self-made man who epitomized the great American dream while ram-bunctiously flouting its convention.

Isaac Merritt Singer, the sewing machine magnate, had a genius for invention, a fondness for extravagant living and an unblushing perchant for notoriety. Born in 1811, the scarcely literate son of an im-migrant, he rose to the forefront of industry.

The sewing machine he perfected revolutionized manufacturing. The marketing techniques pioneered by his company transformed com-merce. The polygamy he practiced scandalized America.

"SATURDAY NIGHT KNIFE & GUN CLUB" by B.P. Reiter, M.D. With his long hair, single gold earring and manic high spirits, Gypsy is about as far from Dr. Kildare as Serpico is from Sergeant Friday. And the chaotic municipal hospital emergency room where Gypsy's year of internship begins is more like general mayhem than "General Hospital".

Into the emergency room streams an undending, disorderly procession of junkies, winos, derelicts, pimps and whores. Gypsy's task is to keep them breathing sew them up and drag them kicking and screaming back to health.

Gypsy plunges into an on-the-job crash course to learn the things they never taught him in med school — such as how to take a lifelong medical history from a wino in two minutes flat, how to administer medication to a junkie before he vanishes into the nearest restroom to shoot up, how to avoid being pummeled into unconsciousness by a grateful patient. He also learns how to catnap on treatment tables, how to make love in on-call rooms and how to gobble cold pizza in the quiet moments between stabbings.

"HIGH ROAD TO CHINA" by Jon Cleary. In one of his most ingratiating performances in years, a veteran storyteller returns the reader to a world gone forever, yet still within living memory — the world of the Twenties, the final decade in which such high ad-venture could actually happen.

On a gray day in August, 1920, Eve Tozer, the attractive daughter of an American tycoon with huge trading interests in China, disembarked at Tilbury Docks and checked in at the Savoy Hotel, London. Hardly had the page carried the bags to her suite before a mysterious Oriental was announced.

Her father, whom she had left safe and sound in Shanghai, had been kidnapped by a warlord. The ransom demanded was a priceless statuette that Eve had brought with her. The closing date for its receipt was only 18 days off. Even the fastest liner sailing on the next tide could not now reach China in time. The only hope — and that a thin one — was to fly.

How, in those days before airlines and airports, Eve found a couple of ex-RFC pilots on their uppers, how they bought and equipped three Bristol 2-seaters (Eve herself was a qualified pilot, how they evaded trouble in France and ran into it in Germany, is only part of the opening section of John Cleary's exciting tale.

"CRASH" by Rob and Sarah Elder. Bob Loft was a tough, seasoned veteran who ranked 50th in seniority among Eastern's 4,000 pilots. He had been flying for Eastern since the days of Eddie Rickenbacker.

The co-pilot for Flight 401 was Bert Stockstill, a handsome former Air Force flier so devoted to aviation that he built airplanes by hand as a hobby. Together, Loft and Stockstill had charge of a new Lockheed L-1011, a 17-million-dollar jet heralded as the safest, most comfortable plane ever built — a supership of the airways.

In the cabin, nine flight attendants served cocktails and sandwiches under the direction of Adrienne Ann Hamilton, a slender, serious Texan. She did not think of herself as religious, but now she did something she has never done in four years of professional flying — she said a quick prayer: If anything happens, please let me make it through.

Before the night was over, 185 tons of metal, kerosene, cargo and humanity would become a fireball cartwheeling into the Everglades wilderness. "Crash" is the true story of the first casualty in the new generation of jumbo jetliners.

"THE WINDS OF LOVE" by Agnes Sligh Turnbull. This the absorbing story of a woman facing the crisis of a broken marriage. Katherine Davenport, is a happy woman with a husband she loves, two delightful children, a wide circle of friends and an assured position in the small suburban community.

Her happiness and security are suddenly shattered when David tells her he has fallen in love with his secretary, cannot fight against it and asks her to give him a divorce. This she refuses to do, believing that a marriage built upon years of mutual love and trust cannot be broken by a possible infatuation. She remains adamant against all his embittered pleas and is finally left to accept the role of the deserted wife.

This she does with dignity and courage. She finds much fulfillment in the lives of her children and also in a surprising new intimacy with many of her friends. They, knowing she has born the sorrows of love, find her receptive to their confidences.

"ECHOES FROM THE MACABRE", selected stories by Daphne du Maurier. Nine chilling tales by one of the virtuosos of suspense and quiet terror. Now published for the first time in one collection are such famous du Maurier classics as "The Birds" and

"Don't Look Now" both of which have been made into equally frightening motion pictures.

In these and each of the other high gothic tales in this volume, there is the unmistakable du Maurier touch that for decades has made her the mistress of the macabre; brightly sinister drama, the chilling undercurrent of death and electrifying endings. "Echoes from the Macabre" — whisperings of horror from one of the world's most popular authors.

The MSU Garden Corner answers timely queries

Michigan State University Extension specialists answer timely questions on horticultural topics.

Q. What are frankincense and myrrh?

A. Frankincense has been valued for thousands of years as an ingredient in incense, perfumes and fumigating powders. It is a yellow resin extracted from a woody shrub or small tree found in Africa and Asia. Myrrh is also a resin. It has been used for centuries in making incense, salves, medicines, perfumes, disinfectants and embalming mixtures. During biblical times it was considered as valuable as gold.

Q. How do I roast chestnuts?

A. Begin by slashing each one across the flat side with a sharp knife. Spread the chestnuts in a shallow pan, sprinkle with a quarter cup of water and bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F) for 15 minutes or until the shells split open. Peel with a sharp knife while they are still warm, removing the bitter brown inner skin as well as the shell.

Q. What is the best way to store fresh nuts?

A. Nuts keep best in their shells. The shells protect them against light, heat, moisture and exposure to air, all of which cause nutmeats to turn rancid. Shelled nuts should be stored in moisture-vaporproof containers in the refrigerator or freezer. Nuts in the shell may be stored at room temperature but will keep longer — up to two years — in the freezer.

Q. What's the story on the Yule log?

A. The custom of the Yule log is English in origin. It's uncertain where the term "Yule" came from. One writer on traditions and folklore suggests that it comes from the Anglo-Axon word "hveol," the ancestor of the modern English word "wheel." This interpretation ties the Yule log tradition into the early pagan belief that the sun was like a wheel that pursued an annual course across the heavens. The burning of the Yule log could probably be traced to pagan festivals celebrating the winter solstice, when a bonfire was part of a ceremony of sacrifice to or propitiation of the fire god.

In later times, the Yule log, usually of great size, was dragged to the home on Christmas Eve and lit with a brand from the previous year's log. Its tie to Christmas was that it illuminated the home as Christ's coming was to have brought light to the world.

Q. My Christmas cactus was loaded with flower buds when I bought it, but after I brought it home, they all fell off. What happened?

A. The usual cause of flower bud drop in Christmas cactus is too high temperatures or too little light. Next year, make sure your plant gets bright light or full sun and temperatures around 70 degrees during the day.

Q. My African violets are green and lush, but they won't flower. What can I do to persuade them to bloom?

A. The most important factor in good growth and bloom is sufficient light. Try moving your violets to a south window with a sheer curtain. There the plants will get bright light without being exposed to full sun. If you don't have a south window, you might want to grow your violets under artificial light. Arrange plants about 12-15 inches below fluorescent tubes and keep the lights on about 14 hours a day.

Air that is too warm (more than 75 degrees), too cool (below 55 degrees) or too dry; and over- and underwatering may also interfere with flowering.

Q. I grew pumpkins for the first time this year and lost a lot of them because they rotted on the vine after the first frost. Did I do something wrong?

A. It's usually advised to harvest mature pumpkins before frost. Frost damages the hard rind, opening the way for decay organisms. Compare what happened to your pumpkins with the rapid deterioration of a carved jack o'lantern. It doesn't last long after it's cut, especially if the weather turns wet and mild, as it did this year in parts of Michigan. If you grow pumpkins again next year, harvest mature ones after the beginning of cool weather but before frost. The rind should be hard and of a good orange color.

Q. My son saved the seeds from his Halloween pumpkin so he can plant them next year. What's likely to happen? Is he going to be disappointed?

A. Not disappointed, probably, but maybe surprised. The pumpkins grown for jack o'lanterns, like so many other improved vegetable varieties, are hybrids. They are produced by crossing two or more varieties to get a certain combination of desirable characteristics. If planted, the seeds from the fruits of these hybrid plants should grow into vines that will, in turn, produce fruits, but these fruits may be quite different from the ones from which the seeds were taken. Many of the desired characteristics achieved by the original cross may be lost. This is why MSU horticulturists usually advise against saving your own seed. As a gardening project for fun, however, saving and planting seeds of hybrid crosses can be quite exciting. You literally don't know what's going to come up!

Marge Jahr is hostess to HV Garden Club luncheon

The Huron Valley Garden Club held its December meeting at the home of Marge Jahr on Harmony Lane. For the occasion each member brought her favorite salad which was served buffet style prior to the business session.

An interesting report on the Christmas Show which was held at the Detroit Garden Center Moross House was given by Jennie Gras, Kathy Rennell and Helen White. The threesome had served as hostesses to those coming to view the holiday decorations entered for judging by many area garden clubs.

The meeting came to an early conclusion due to the heavy snow in the afternoon.

Don't panic if you find bugs in your Christmas tree

Bugs in your Christmas tree? Well, why not?

The trees grown for Christmas use are grown outdoors. Like any other outdoor plants, they have their share of insect pests. So it shouldn't come as a surprise to anyone when some of them travel into the home with the tree.

White pine aphids are probably the most common insect to travel indoors on Christmas trees, Liebherr says.

The aphids come indoors as eggs on the tree's needles, he explains. As the tree gets warm, the eggs may hatch. In the warm, dry atmosphere of the typical home, the 1-16-inch-long insects do not last long. Those that do survive for any length of time leave with the Christmas tree, so there's no cause for alarm.

Jumping plant lice, which spend the winter as adults, are slightly larger relatives of the pine aphid. They live on blackberries in the summer, sucking plant juices. Then, when the weather gets cold, they move into the nearest stand of pines and take shelter there. If the tree they choose happens to end up in your living room, you get plant lice flying — not jumping — all over.

"Jumping plant lice are about one eighth-inch long and tan colored with two light stripes on their wings," Liebherr says. "Like the white pine aphids, they're just a nuisance in the house."

Ochter pests that might hitchhike into your home on a Christmas tree include several types of sawflies, lacewings and spiders. The sawflies usually prefer types of pine not generally used for Christmas trees, Liebherr notes, but it is possible that they might lay eggs on white or Scotch pine. When these hatched, the caterpillar-like larvae would feed on the tree's needles. Like aphids, they would not thrive in the warm, dry air of most homes, so they probably wouldn't last long enough to do much damage.

"If you just can't stand the thought of having bugs in your house, you could use an insect spray that contains pyrethrum and take care of most of the things that might come in on your tree," Liebherr says. "These insects probably won't survive long in the house, however; they won't do any damage and they'll leave when the tree does. It's certainly nothing to get excited about."

Wedding date set September, 1978

Debra Renee Duane of Belleville and Robert Luther Twork of Flat Rock are engaged and making plans for a fall wedding in 1978.

The bride-elect, a 1975 graduate of Belleville High School, is currently attending Western Michigan University. She is the daughter of Mrs. George Heifner of 41527 Edison Lake Rd., Belleville, and Harold Duane of 187 Belle Villa Blvd., Belleville.

Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Twork of 28617 Cahill, Flat Rock, attended Flat Rock High School and is employed as a heavy equipment operator for Levy Company of Detroit.

The young couple plan to be married Sept. 22 at the First United Methodist Church of Belleville.

For and about seniors

Cheer up for Yule...

By MAUREEN BEATTY

The feeling of loneliness that overtakes many seniors during the holiday season can be alleviated, but not without conscious effort and determination. Last week we suggested some positive steps to take to make the season a little brighter. I think the following ideas are also worth trying.

If you have dishes, silverware or glasses other than what you use every day, get them out. Fix a fancy tray and have a few relaxing meals while watching television. Buy an "Uncandle" or two for your coffee table, and enjoy the added glow of the burning wick while eating. (I've been told if an uncandle is accidentally tipped over, the water will automatically put out the flame, making them much safer than ordinary candles.)

Pick your poinsettia carefully

In the 150 years since it was introduced from Mexico, the poinsettia (Euphorbia pulcherrima) has become a U. S. Christmas tradition. With the new, hybrid varieties, the red, pink and white flower bracts may last for months.

Choose a poinsettia that has dark green foliage, advise Michigan State University horticulturists. Fallen or yellow leaves indicate it has been poorly fertilized or it has a root disease. The colorful bracts should be of good size and color. The true flowers, the buttonlike structures at the center of the bracts, should have little or no yellow pollen showing on them. To keep your poinsettia healthy, keep it out of hot and cold drafts and high temperatures. Temperatures of 60-70 degrees during the day are best, with 55 degrees at night. Higher temperatures will shorten the blooming period.

Place your poinsettia where it will be exposed to bright, indirect light. If light levels are too low, the lower leaves will yellow and drop off. Dry air also will cause leaf drop.

Water the poinsettia when the soil feels moderately dry. Avoid overwatering.

Fertilize once a month with houseplant fertilizer.

If you are in relatively good health, so that it won't be a burden to you, give yourself a loving companion for Christmas by adopting a dog. Our four-legged friends are known for their unselfish, undemanding, affectionate ways.

Don't push any depression buttons during the holidays. Change your routine so certain past traditions don't cause you to dwell on the loss of loved ones. When unhappy thoughts start creeping in, make yourself as busy as possible until your mind is occupied with more pleasant things.

Buy a large jig saw puzzle and try to finish it before the new year. You will be surprised at how fast the evenings fly.

Write some letters to people you have never written to before: the editor of your newspaper, your congressman, the President of the United States, if you are moved to do so. Put those complaints you have stored up, on paper; or if you think they are doing a good job, tell them so. All human beings enjoy praise for their efforts; they will welcome your letters.

Last but not least, whether you are a church goer or not, try to attend services during the holidays. This time of year, a reminder that we are never really alone can be the best mood lifter of all.

If none of these suggestions appeal to you, hopefully they will at least cause you to have some positive thoughts about the holidays.

I want to take this opportunity to wish every senior who participates in the Out-Wayne County Nutrition Program, and every reader of The Associated Newspapers, a very blessed Christmas. My thoughts are with you.

'What Do You See?'

--Poem asks

NOTE: A local resident brought this poem to our attention. It appeared in the Nov. 9 edition of the Sanilac Jeffersonian, and was so moving, it seemed appropriate for this time of year.

WHAT DO YOU SEE?

When an old lady died in the Geriatric Ward of Ashludle Hospital near Dundee, England, it appeared that she had left nothing of value. The nurses, is going through her positions, found a poem. The quality of the poem so impressed the staff that copies were made and distributed to every nurse in the hospital. When one of the nurses moved to nursing, geriatric patients in Briard Valley Hospital in Ireland, she took her copy with her and the poem appeared in a Christmas edition of the Beacon House News, the magazine for Northern Ireland Association for Mental Health. This then was the lady's bequest to posterity.

What do you see, nurses, what do you see?
Are you thinking, when you look at me?
A crabby old woman, not very wise,
Uncertain of habit, with far away eyes,
Who dribbles her food and makes no reply
When you say in a loud voice, "I do wish you'd try."
Who seems not to notice the things that you do
And forever is losing a stocking or shoe.
Who, unresisting or not, lets you do as you will
With bathing and feeding, the long day to fill.
Is that what you're thinking, is that what you see?
Then open your eyes, nurse, you're not looking at me.
I'll tell you who I am as I sit here so still,

As I move at your bidding, as I eat at your will,
I'm a small child of ten with a father and mother,
Brothers and Sisters who love one another.
A young girl of sixteen with wings on her feet
Dreaming that soon a lover she'll meet.
A bride soon at twenty - my heart gives a leap Remembering the vows that I promised to keep.
I'm twenty-five now, I have young of my own
Who need me to build a secure, happy home.
At forty, my young sons have grown and are gone,
But my man's beside me, to see I don't mourn.
At fifty, once more babies play round my knee
Again we know children, my loved one and me.
Dark days are upon me, my husband is dead,
I took at the future, I shudder with dread
For my young are all rearing young of their own
And I think of the years, and the love that I've known
I'm an old woman now and nature is cruel
It is her jest to make old age look like a fool.
The body is crumbled, grace and vigor depart,
There is a stone where I once had a heart.
But inside this old carcass a young girl still dwells.
And now and again my battered heart swells.
I remember the joys, I remember the pain,
And I'm loving and living life over again.
I think of the years, all too few - all gone too fast.
And accept the stark fact that nothing can last.
So open your eyes, nurses, open and see
Not a crabby old woman - look closer - SEE ME!

Like our ancestors

Handicapped: Pioneers in wheelchairs

We can learn from history, although the message often may seem remote from our daily lives. That this is not necessarily so is Bill Kiser's message in "Pioneering in a Wheelchair".

Kiser, the 1976 Handicapped American of the Year, looks to our own American West and makes some interesting observations. As a severely disabled person, he sees parallels between the winning of the frontier and the efforts of handicapped people to achieve full independence and participation in our society.

By BILL KISER

That the wide open spaces of the Old West have a special appeal to most Americans is evident by the many television programs devoted to this stage of our history. From "Bonanza" to "Little House on the Prairie", we get a sense of what it was like to be a pioneer.

Handicapped people of today find themselves on a new frontier with many similarities to the one conquered by our pioneer ancestors. To be sure, there are many dangers and obstacles on our paths. Rather than hostile natives and wild animals, we are faced with indifference and sometimes prejudice. There are two major similarities between our struggle for independence and that of our forefathers who settled the West.

First, the pioneers were dissatisfied with their previous lot in life. Whether motivated by idealism or material gain, they were committed to bringing about a change in their own lives. And from these personal changes came changes in the society in which they lived.

Disabled people today are saying that they are dissatisfied with not being able to live and work and participate fully in their society. And society is changing as we progress toward our own new frontiers. Increased access and changed attitudes affect everybody. Second, although writers and dramatists have never been able to make digging stumps and hauling rocks exciting, the West was won by back-breaking labor. There must have been a lot of monotony and frustration tending cattle and planting crops, but this was necessary to eke a living out of the new territory.

It also is hard work, and not often exciting, being disabled. Overcoming architectural and attitudinal barriers can be as exhausting as physical labor. There's monotony and drudgery, too, in having to cope with barriers one can't get through.

How did the pioneers do it? Government aid played a part. In addition to free land, the early settlers usually had military support at army posts. Federal money provided law enforcement until the pioneer towns were established enough to elect their own officials.

Technology, although it might not have been called that, also was important. Advances in weapons enabled the settlers to protect themselves. Better plows and farming equipment facilitated homesteading. The development of the railroad and the telegraph helped tie isolated western settlements to the rest of the country.

How does this relate to handicapped people? Like our western ancestors, our success will depend finally on our own efforts and "true grit". No government assistance can do the job for us. But, like them, we do need proper support from government and the rest of society for our efforts to be meaningful. Those of us who are more severely handicapped need the tools of modern technology to help us conquer our frontiers as surely as the settlers needed their guns and plows, and the back-up assistance of the railroad and telegraph.

In time we can judge if the implementation of the Section 503 and 504 amendments of the Vocational Rehabilitation Act will compare with the free land grants of pioneer days, or whether the recent White House Conference on Handicapped Individuals will be remembered as the Alamo of the disabled.

History will record only the more important accomplishments of certain handicapped individuals. Omitted will be the day-to-day struggle of the over 28 million Americans who have some type of mental or physical impairment. But the unnamed farmers and ranchers were as important in winning the West as the Wyatt Earps and Batt Mastersons.

So whether we make a name for ourselves or not, it's up to us as disabled people to conquer our own frontiers. Confronted with our everyday problems, it's often hard to envision ourselves as pioneers, carving out a new and independent life. It's doubtful that our western ancestors saw themselves in a very romantic light either.

Nevertheless, our pioneering is as much a venture into new lands as theirs was. We are only struggling to gain equal opportunities and responsibilities as American citizens. A chance to make it, to carve out territory to build a life—that's what the movement west was about. That's what disabled people are working for, too—a chance to be pioneers, strong and independent, winning a new frontier.

Fulford retires from EMU

Gerald E. Fulford, general fund analyst at Eastern Michigan University, has called it quits, retiring after 15 years of service to the university in its Budget Office. Fulford's retirement was effective Dec. 10, pending approval by the EMU Board of Regents.

Fulford, 63, first began working for the university on Feb. 1, 1963, as a supervisor in the Cashier's Office. A native of Romulus, he had been employed previously as an accountant and an administrative planner for the Ford Motor Co. Fulford also owned and operated the Fulford Produce Co. in Ypsilanti for 15 years before coming to Eastern.

Fulford earned his bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Detroit in 1937 and a master's degree in business administration from Eastern in 1967. During World War II, he served as a communications officer in charge of radio signalling and tactical communications with the U.S. Pacific fleet.

At EMU, Fulford served as director of fiscal analysis and internal audit and was responsible for recommendations for new policies and procedures and revising existing policies. Fulford was responsible for the administration and supervision of the University's internal audit program. He was EMU's first director of data processing and its first fiscal analyst.

More recently, Fulford served as risk manager at Eastern. He was responsible for negotiating insurance coverages, processing insurance claims to settlements and initiating loss-prevention programs.

A long-time resident of Ypsilanti, he is most active in community activities. He is a member of the Board of Directors for the Ypsilanti Boy's Clubs and is a past-president of the club's board. He has served as a board member for the last 22 years and is a member of the Michigan Area Council of Boys Clubs of America.

Fulford is president of the Board of Directors of the John Knox Village Retirement Center in Ann Arbor and is chairman of the church committee at Zion Lutheran Church in Ann Arbor.

Professionally, Fulford is a member of the Association of College and University Auditors and the Michigan University Risk Managers Association.

"I have made many friends at Eastern over the last 15 years and hope to maintain contact with them in my retirement," Fulford said. "I am planning on an active retirement at least for the foreseeable future. Several service activities and a limited amount of temporary employment are on my immediate agenda."

Michigan's exodus: South for holidays

The exodus of Michiganders to sunnier climates and northern ski lodges this Christmas-New Year's holiday may set a record as advance lodging and airline reservations are up 10 percent over last year, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Air space to Florida, California, Mexico, Hawaii and the Caribbean is booked for much of the holiday period. Lodging in those areas and at many state ski lodges is obtainable now only through cancellations.

"Persons making immediate reservations at popular hotels and motels across Michigan should find desired accommodations at all but Michigan's northern ski lodges which are filled between Christmas and New Year's Day," said Auto Club World Travel Manager C. E. Stanbury.

Stanbury, who advised skiers without accommodations to seek reservations at motels in communities near major ski resorts, said that some northern cities are filling motel space for the holidays at a record pace.

"Motel space is at least 90 percent booked between Christmas and New Year's in Grayling, Gaylord, Petoskey and Cadillac and those areas should fill for much of the holidays," Stanbury said.

"Motel owners in other sections of Michigan expect heavy holiday pressure, but most operators do not anticipate filling," he added. "This includes the popular Traverse City area."

Approximately 3.4 million cars will travel an estimated 660 million miles in Michigan over the 78-hour Christmas holiday, which begins at 6 p.m. Dec. 23, and concludes at 12 midnight Dec. 26, and again over New Year's, which begins at 6 p.m. Dec. 30, and runs through 12 midnight Jan. 2.

During last year's 78-hour holidays, 17 persons died in Michigan traffic accidents over Christmas and 13 over New Year's.

"Between Dec. 18 and Jan. 3, Michiganders will find it difficult to obtain a ticket for air travel or book rooms at desired accommodations at warm-weather destinations," Stanbury said.

"No matter where you travel this holiday, confirm all reservations for air travel or rooms at least 72 hours before starting a trip," Stanbury said: "Persons without confirmed tickets for air travel still can arrive at airports at least two hours before intended flights depart and put names on standby lists."

Since some airlines have cancellation rates of up to 15 percent, many travelers stand a good chance of getting on intended flights. Auto Club does not recommend standby status for families.

To accommodate the expected holiday rush, some airlines have added flights. Delta has 1,000 additional seats to Florida while United will have 60,000 more seats to U.S. destinations between Dec. 16 and Jan. 3.

"Florida tourism officials say seashore accommodations south of a line from Tampa to Jacksonville and within a 20-mile radius of Disney World are nearly sold out between Dec. 15 and Jan. 3," Stanbury said. "Disney World officials are expecting record crowds between Dec. 20 and Jan. 2."

Florida campground space also will be difficult to find, with nearly 80 percent of the 94,000 public and private campsites expected to fill for the holidays.

Only scattered areas of the Caribbean still have motel-hotel accommodations during the holidays.

Driving hazards go with different sports

Douglas M. Fergusson is the kind of person who will ask what kind of winter sport you're into. He will tell you point-blank about the miserable weather you are apt to encounter. Then he will talk for hours about how

Frozen lakes doesn't mean they're safe

With cold weather upon us, many people will begin venturing out onto frozen bodies of water.

Ice thickness should be of concern to everyone who uses it for recreational purposes, according to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). A spokesman for the department has cautioned winter enthusiasts that just because lakes are frozen doesn't mean they are safe.

Eric Olsen of the DNR's Marine Safety Section said ice can be tricky. "It could be six feet thick in one spot and a few feet away only inches thick."

With that in mind, the DNR is recommending some general rules of thumb to use when judging the relative safety of ice and some precautions to take before you venture out.

To begin with, you can't always tell the strength of ice simply by its look, or its thickness, or the daily temperature, or whether or not the ice is covered with snow.

The strength of ice, in fact, depends on these four factors plus a number of others, including depth of water under the ice, surface size of the body of water, chemistry of the water, the distribution of any load placed on the ice, and local climatic factors that vary considerably from place to place.

In general, however, new ice will be much stronger than old ice. Ice formed by direct freezing of lake or stream water will be stronger than ice formed from melting snow, refrozen ice, or ice made of water that bubbles up through cracks and then freezes on the surface.

In other words, clear new ice generally is stronger than ice clouded with air bubbles. And a couple of inches of this new ice may be strong enough to support you while a foot of old ice, or so-called "rotten" ice, will not.

The DNR advises against ever driving a car onto a lake. If you feel you must drive your car onto a lake, parking in one spot tends to weaken ice, and when the thickness of ice is marginal, prolonged parking on one spot is not recommended. Vehicles should be moved around and parked at alternate locations from time to time to allow ice to recover its earlier, or "normal" shape and position.

It takes prolonged freezing temperatures to produce solid ice. Look for bluish ice as a safety sign. On the other hand, look out for honey-combed ice and stay clear of dark spots in the ice.

A good place to start sizing up conditions on your favorite lake is right around the shore. If ice is squishy or broken up, it's a pretty good bet that the whole lake is unsafe.

Beware of lake inlets and outlets. They generally have some thin patches of ice throughout the winter. Don't tread into areas of lakes where the snow cover looks discolored.

As a general rule, don't walk on ice that is less than two inches thick, don't ride a snowmobile on ice that is less than five inches thick, and don't drive a car on ice that is less than eight inches thick.

Other points of interest about ice: —Shore ice often is broken and refrozen during the winter because of the constant buckling action of ice on a lake. Such ice, near shore, is always weaker than "refrozen" ice.

—On cold days, or still evenings, the ice on a lake may be heard to crack more or less continuously. This doesn't mean the ice is dangerous; merely, that it is changing its shape as the temperature changes.

—Cars often establish roadways from shore to favorite fishing grounds. These roads can be weakened by repeated use, and should not necessarily be considered the safest route to a fishing spot.

to avoid disaster while driving to your favorite winter sports area and home again.

Fergusson's concerns about winter driving hazards come from a deep personal commitment to traffic accident prevention. He is chairman of the National Safety Council's (NSC) Committee on Winter Driving Hazards; vice-president for Traffic for NSC; and director of Safety Services for Nationwide Insurance Co.

Over many years, Fergusson has personally taken part in the council's annual winter driving test program. He has helped evaluate the performance of all types of vehicles and equipment, as well as driving techniques over a wide range of hazardous driving conditions. He knows whereof he speaks when it comes to commonsense driving precautions for winter.

According to Fergusson, special driving hazards accompany different types of winter sports. Hunters on unimproved, out-of-the-way roads find themselves blocked by blizzard drifts. Glittering snow, the very stuff that makes downhill slopes a pleasure for skiers, can slick up a mountain pass until it becomes impassable.

And snowmobilers add a trailer whipping along behind their cars to compound vehicle control problems on icy or snow-clogged roads. For these vehicle-trailer buffs, Fergusson, whose experiences as a winter skid-tester include both passenger cars and truckers' rigs, has these tips:

—Starting and accelerating must be slow and easy;

—On curves and turns, a trailer tagging along behind tends to pull the rear of a car out of line;

—Passing other vehicles takes longer and more room is needed before cutting back in (when being passed, the air blast from the passing vehicle can make a trailer swerve back and forth);

—Slowing down and stopping require extra distance; and

—And somehow a trailer seems inclined to try to get ahead of the vehicle towing it during slowdowns and stops (jackknifing).

When these stubborn tendencies show up on winter-slick roads — whether a single vehicle or car-trailer combination is involved — a great deal more care and finesse in maneuvering is required. Anticipate all movements well in advance, then make them smoothly and gradually, Fergusson recommends.

Keep a steady foot on the accelerator. Sudden changes in speed or abrupt turns will throw your car into a skid. If you do go into a skid, turn the steering wheel in the direction the rear-end of the car is skidding. But don't over-steer. The instant you feel your car beginning to pull out of the skid, straighten out the steering wheel to regain control.

Get the "feel of the road". Away from traffic, jab the brake pedal or accelerate the engine momentarily to see whether the wheels skid or spin. A good driver practices this technique whenever in doubt of the condition of the road surface. He then drives accordingly.

When slowing or stopping on slippery pavement, pump the brakes. If you jam them on you will lock the wheels and go into a skid. Instead, apply the brakes gently until you feel that a skid is about to start. The release, steer and pump again. This intermittent braking will keep the front wheels rolling so that you can maintain steering control.

In addition to adjusting your driving to the rotten road conditions your sport takes you through, Fergusson recommends equipping your car with the best possible traction aids. Based on tests by the council's Committee on Winter

Driving Hazards, the following power-to-road traction aids are listed in the order of their effectiveness:

—Reinforced tire chains are tops for severe snow and ice conditions. They provide from four to seven times as much traction as regular highway tires for pulling through deep snow and driving on glare ice.

—Studded snow tires (where permitted) are next best for ice, with new studs providing about three times the pull of regular tires.

—Regular snow tires provide about half again as much pulling power as regular tires in loose snow; but only 28 percent improvement on glare ice.

Fergusson added, however, that even with the help of traction aids, far slower than normal speeds along with far longer gaps between your vehicle and the car ahead are essential whenever pavements are slippery.

"Advance planning, a properly equipped and well-maintained vehicle, plus common-sense driving habits will go a long way toward safe and enjoyable winter driving," Fergusson concluded.

Sleigh bells ring...

A sleigh ride is one of the attractions at the Kensington Children's Farm at Kensington Metropark near Millford. Other winter attractions at the farm include an opportunity to view the farm, its animals and stop by the restaurant for a farm-type dinner or snack. Sleigh rides cost 50 cents per person. The farm is open Tuesday through Sunday during December, and cost $1.50 for adults and $1 for children 12 years and under and senior citizens. Effective Jan. 1 metropark vehicle entry permits are required.

Make your own centerpiece

Has the price tag on those gorgeous pine cone wreaths dampened your holiday decorating spirit? Why not make your own?

Lee Taylor, extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University, says you can easily make your own wreath, if you have a few tools, some basic materials and a little time.

Begin by collecting cones, nuts and hard seed pods of all colors, shapes and sizes. You can get the whole family involved in this part of the project. Any walk through the woods or drive along country roads should yield plenty of possibilities. Be sure to get permission from landowners to collect on their property.

It's a good idea to bake cones, nuts and other plant materials for about an hour before you begin to work with them, Taylor advised. Place them in a thin layer in a shallow pan and set the oven at its lowest setting. This will take care of any worms, beetles, borers or other insect pests that might emerge into your home as the materials get warm.

Tools you will need include pruning shears, tin snips, long-nosed pliers, kitchen shears and a drill with a one eighth-inch bit. To shape your wreath, use a wire wreath frame from your local florist. You'll also need some No. 26 to 28 florist's wire.

To make a large wreath on a wire frame, collect enough large cones of about the same size for the background. Insert the stem end of each cone between the outside top and bottom wires of the frame until it hooks behind the inside top and bottom wires. Keep the cones close together all the way around, with the ends extending outward about the same distance from the frame.

Complete the wreath by wiring smaller cones, cone rosettes and nuts against the large cone background. Rosettes are made by snipping cones crosswise with the pruning shears. To fasten nuts to the wreath, drill them near the stem and so you can poke a wire through each one.

For a smaller wreath, use a small wire frame. Wrap it with brown florist's tape to make it less noticeable. Wire small cones, all about the same size, to the inside and outside of the ring. Then fill in with smaller cones, nuts and cone rosettes.

You can spray it with lacquer or varnish at this point, if you desire a smooth finish.

Holly sprigs and berries, bittersweet, imitation fruit, Christmas tree ornaments, bows, bells, tiny gift boxes and other items can also be wired to the wreath.

Remember that a wreath to hang outdoors needs to be made only of waterproof materials.

Pilobolus Theater will appear on 56

Pilobolus Dance Theater, described as "that mirthful, mildly macabre and thoroughly merry band", will perform four selections from their repertoire on "Great Performances," Dec. 28 at 9:30 p.m. The program will be repeated the following Jan. 1 at 4:00 p.m.

Each of the dances performed by Pilobolus was created by the group. One of the highlights of the show is "Monkshood's Farewell", a dance that amusingly parodies medieval manners.

Pilobolus Dance Theater, founded in 1971 by Moses Pendleton and Jonathan Wolken, has made a name for itself as an "energy circus". Combining dance, acrobatics, design, sculpture and wit into a new art form, Pilobolus sees with its bodies as well as its eyes.

As a company of six dancers, Pilobolus has toured extensively in the United States and has appeared in almost every West European Country and the Middle East.

As Dance News comments: "This group of four men and two women creates and peoples a universe." The New York Times adds: "Pilobolus by any other name would be easier to pronounce, but would hardly be more enjoyable."

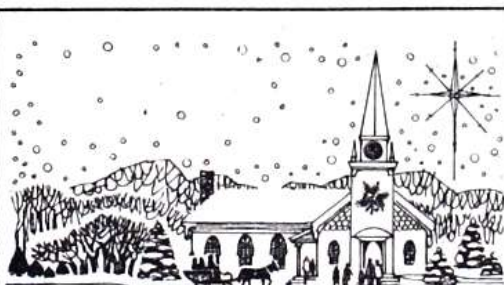

Merry Christmas

May your home be filled with an abundance of Yuletide pleasures. Sincerest thanks, patrons.

Ice arenas establish skating schedules

Although winter activities are somewhat limited compared to warmer months, many western Wayne County communities offer ice skating to help ease the chill of the season.

With the upcoming holidays and school vacations, families might consider spending their free time on ice.

Listed below are locations and schedules of area ice skating rinks in Romulus, Belleville, Inkster, Westland, Wayne and Canton Township.

The rink in Belleville is located at Victory Park on South Columbia Street.

Residents are reminded that there is no supervision and no lighting other than street lights.

One of the four rinks in Romulus provides supervision. At Park No. 1, on Beverly and Henry Ruff roads, the supervisor's hours are from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The rink in Kennedy Park, on Goddard Road at Five Points, is the only one in the city with special lighting.

Another Romulus rink is located near the fire station on Middlebelt Road, south of Ecorse Road.

The rink at Merriman Park on Merriman Road, south of Eureka has not been flooded yet, but it should be ready before the end of the season.

Inkster Civic Arena, 26077 South River park Drive, has holiday open skating, 12 p.m. to 3 p.m., from Dec. 21 through 23 and Dec. 26 through 30.

Skating fees for Inkster residents are 50

Holiday skating at Westland Multi-purpose Arena on Wildwood Street starts Dec. 19 and ends Jan. 1.

Arena hours are Monday through Friday afternoons at 12 to 1:20, 1:30 to 2:50, 3 to 4:20 and 4:30 to 5:50 p.m. There will be no skating Saturdays and Sundays during the holiday scheduling.

Arena skating fees for ages 12 and under are 25 cents for ages 13 and over, 50 cents. Skate rental is not available, but skates will be sharpened for 75 cents.

For schedules of regular hours, call 729-4567 and for other program information phone 729-4560.

At the community center in Wayne, on Howe Road, the holiday skating schedule is

Holiday skating begins Dec. 19 ending Dec. 23 and starts again Dec. 26 finishing Dec. 30.

Additional evening hours are scheduled for Dec. 23 and 30 from 6:30 until 8:30.

Residents also are invited to skate on New Year's Day from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Skating fees are 50 cents per session. For regular skating hours in schedules, call 721-7400.

Holiday skating in Plymouth is open to Canton Township residents, since the city is without a rink of its own. However, residents living within the Plymouth-Canton Community School District will pay less to skate at the community center than non-residents.

Proof of residency is required.

Resident adults will pay $1 and children, 75 cents. Non-residents will be charged $1.25 for adults and $1 for children.

Starting Dec. 21, the holiday schedule will be: 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.; 11 a.m. until 1 p.m.; and 1 p.m. until 3 p.m.

The schedule for the following Thursday and Friday, Dec. 22 and 23, will be the same except for two additional afternoon hours, from 3 to 5 p.m.

There will be no open skating Saturday, and the rink will be closed on Christmas.

Skating Monday Dec. 26 will be from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., and 3 p.m. until 5 p.m.

Wednesday's schedule will be the same as Dec. 21.

And the rest of the week, excluding Saturday, the schedule will be the same as Dec. 22.

One session of skating Dec. 31, will last from 5 to 7 p.m.

Skate rental is available for 50 cents. For regular scheduling information, call 455-6620.

St. Pierre completes recruit training

Marine Pvt. Brett St. Pierre, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Whitehall of Westvale, Romulus, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego, Calif.

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basic of battlefield survival. He also was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He joined the Marine Corps in December 1976.

Also in the armed forces: S. Sgt. Rickey C. McIntosh, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse McIntosh of Labo Road, Carleton, has arrived for duty at Clark Air Base, Philippines.

Sgt. McIntosh, a fuel specialist with a unit of the Pacific Air Forces, previously served at Moody Air Force Base, Ga.

The sergeant is a 1970 graduate of Airport High School.

Navy Firearm Recruit David A. Wolfe, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald A. Wolfe of Savage, Belleville, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center at Orlando, Fla.

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in their studies were seamanship, close-order drill, Naval history and first aid.

A 1977 graduate of Belleville High School, he joined the Navy in September 1977.

remainder of the cruise, his ship will participate in various training exercises with other Sixth Fleet units and with ships of allied nations.

A 1976 graduate of Belleville Senior High School, he joined the Navy in June 1976.

Do you hate to make decisions? Or you make them but only at the last minute? Due to some significant changes in the tax law, you may not want to wait until the last week of December to do your 1977 tax planning.

For example, one important change in the law that will affect many taxpayers is the increased time property must be held in order to qualify for long term capital gain or loss treatment. In prior years, you had to hold an asset for more than six months to qualify for the long-term capital gain of loss treatment, but for 1977, the holding period has been increased to nine months.

This means, for instance, that if you purchased some stock or perhaps land on Jan. 4, 1977, you must have owned that property until at least Oct. 5 in order to be eligible for long term capital gains treatment. If you disposed of the property before October 5, the entire gain from the sale would be reportable.

Also for 1977 tax returns, the amount of a capital loss that may be claimed on your tax return as an offset against taxable income, has been increased from $1,000 to $2,000.

Suppose you purchased some stock in March 1977 for $6,000 and sold it in December 1977 for $2,000. Your total loss was $4,000. In prior years, you would have been allowed to offset your taxable income by only $1,000 of the loss, but for 1977 you may use $2,000 of the loss to offset your income. As in the past, any excess loss may be carried over to the next year.

Other changes in the tax law that may affect millions of Americans concern Individual Retirement Arrangements, commonly referred to as IRAs. Generally, these are personal retirement savings plans that may be set up by working persons under age 70 1/2 who do not participate in any other pension or annuity plans. The advantage of an IRA is that contributions are not taxed until you receive distributions from the plan, normally after you retire when you may be in a much lower tax bracket.

This year, for the first time, workers who have established an IRA also may set up such a plan for their non-working spouse. This means that you can save an extra amount of money for retirement years.

The deduction you are allowed for your combined contributions to both plans is 15 percent of the working spouse's income, to a top limit of $1,750. However, you may not take a larger deduction for one spouse's

IRA than for the other.

So therefore, if you contribute more to your plan, for example, than to your spouse's plan, your deduction is limited to twice the amount contributed to your spouse's plan. Here's how that works: You received compensation of $20,000 in 1977 and contributed $875 to your IRA and $800 to an IRA for your unemployed spouse. Even though your total contribution was $1,675, you are allowed a deduction on your return of only $1,600, twice the smaller amount contributed to a plan.

Another change concerning IRAs involves the period in which you may make contributions to an IRA and still deduct those contributions on your 1977 tax return.

If you make your contribution within 45 days from the end of the year (by Feb. 14, 1978), you may still deduct it on your 1977 return. This new provision allows you to figure your income for the year, and then make your contribution based on that figure.

For more information on capital gains and losses or Individual Retirement Arrangements, contact the IRS for a free copy of Publication 544, "Sales and Other Dispositions of Assets," or Publication 590, "Tax Information on Individual Retirement Savings Programs."

Prominent judges say

Millage needed for criminal justice system

Several prominent judges have urged Wayne County officials to consider putting a special millage proposal on the ballot "to meet the needs of the overtaxed law enforcement criminal-justice system".

The judges said "they don't have enough money now to hire the manpower necessary to put an increasing number of criminals operating in Wayne County behind bars".

The judges' appeal was in response to an urgent meeting called by Wayne County Commissioners Rose Mary C. Robinson and Richard E. Manning to discuss an unexpected $3.5 million in prisoner housing costs at the Sheriff's detention annex—M Building on the county hospital grounds in Westland.

Wayne County is under orders from the State Municipal Finance Commission to maintain a balanced budget or face a possible state-controlled takeover.

The 1977-78 county budget provides for 70 inmates at the annex at an estimated annual cost of $2.2 million. The County Board of Commissioners appropriated an additional $317,000 because the prisoner population has been averaging between 200-250, the maximum capacity.

"That supplemental appropriation runs out Jan. 8," Ms. Robinson said. "Our fiscal advisor tells us it would cost $5.7 million this year to operate M Building at the present level.

We've got to find a way to reduce the prisoner population—or face cuts in previously allocated services."

Circuit Judge Richard Dunn, who will succeed retiring Judge James Canham as chief of Circuit Court in January, has been appointed chairman of a committee which will seek answers to the critical budget problem, Manning announced.

Recorder's Court Judge James A. Hathaway and Wayne Circuit Judge James Canham said "courts are operating on a bare bones budget now, and that it would be a public disaster; if the criminal justice system had to take further budget cuts".

Canham and former Judge T. John Lesinski, administrator of the Recorder's Court Crash Program, recommended that the commissioners cut "non-mandated county programs".

"It's time for the county to get out of the hospital business," Lesinski said. "There are a multitude of hospital beds that are unused. Patients could be transferred to area hospitals at a much reduced cost."

Canham added: "Only the county can lock up criminals—but there is nothing in the statutes that says we need to operate a hospital. It's a noble idea, but it's always been my impression that we have to many hospital beds in this community."

The three judges said on a short-term basis they would support the commissioners in seeking state aid to meet rising costs, but the long-term plan "has got to include more revenue for the county".

"If the public wants criminals convicted and locked up—and I'm firmly convinced they do—we have got to tell them the only answer is more money," Lesinski said. "I strongly urge a millage program dedicated to improvements in the court system. The public has got to know that federal help for 'crash' programs won't be available next year."

"Crime is rising. Costs are rising. If it takes $80 a day to keep a dangerous criminal locked up, we'll have to pay the price," he added.

In addition to the judiciary, the commissioners have sought the cooperation of the Sheriff and the County Prosecutor in solving the critical budget dilemma.

Commissioner Manning said the special meeting "produced some short-term possibilities that could help relieve the serious overcrowding at the jail annex."

"Our next step is to go over some of these suggestions at the conference table with the Sheriff, the Prosecutor and the judges," Manning said. "Hopefully, we can all put our heads together and come up with some additional ways to save money."

Ms. Robinson chairs the Board of Commissioners' Public Safety and Judiciary Committee which makes recommendations to the full board on funding and services for the county's criminal justice-law enforcement network. Manning is a committee member.

MERC rules safety personnel pact illegal

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) has ruled that an American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Union (AFSCME) contract with the Wayne County Road Commission is not legal.

The contract involves personnel at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

The Police Officers Association of Michigan (POAM) challenged the contract, which covers security officers at the airport and included both supervisory and non-supervisory employees. It lumped 62 supervisory personnel and nearly 60 security officers under one agreement.

In its decision, MERC ruled that "the present contract offered no bar for an election which the POAM requested".

"As a result of the MERC decision, our union is immediately moving forward in efforts to become the bargaining representative for the nearly 60 security officers at Metro Airport," said POAM Executive Director Carl Parsell. "POAM is just waiting for MERC to set a date for a union representation election for the security officers."

The officers will choose between joining POAM or remaining with AFSCME, their present bargaining agent. The Teamsters Union cannot be involved in this selection because of a MERC ruling.

The security officers are charged with responsibility of handling the law enforcement duties at Metro Airport.

All the officers are certified by the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council (MLEOTC) and must have had two years of college education to apply for the position.

POAM, a full service union of professional police officers representing professional police officers, is the bargaining representative for law enforcement associations throughout the State of Michigan.

Top pledge recipient

When the Romulus Jaycees sponsored their Walk for the Underprivileged in early fall, every participant was asked to get as many pledges as possible for the 20-mile hike. Top pledge getter was Lori Frink, a South Junior High student, who obtained $306 to win first prize of a television set, donated by Sears Roebuck and Co. The picture, snapped by Romulus High School photography student Cindy Wilbur, shows Lori receiving the grand prize from Walk Chairman Fred Coleman, a teacher at the high school.

Bill could lead to banning tandems in bad weather

Michigan should soon have a law on the books which will make it easier to prosecute construction firms when hazardous working conditions lead to fatal employee accidents, according to Senate Labor Committee Chairman David A. Plawecki (D-12th District).

Plawecki said he expects prompt enactment of a bill, adopted Dec. 13 in the Senate, which clarifies the definition of "intent" to violate the state's safety code.

The newly-adopted measure defines a willful intent to commit a criminal violation as "knowingly and purposefully" disregarding safety standards.

"The Port Huron tunnel disaster of 1971, which claimed 22 lives," noted Plawecki, "is a glaring example of the inadequacy of existing law."

"In that case, prosecutors were reluctant to bring charges against the firm involved in the construction because of a belief that it was virtually impossible to prove willful intent," Plawecki said.

Data from the State Department of Labor confirms that the current law is a problem. In construction cases where the department has sought criminal prosecution, they have not been able to make a charge stick.

'Save a Life'

In a concentrated effort to thwart an area-wide blood shortage during the holiday season, Red Cross will sponsor Save-A-Life Day Jan. 2 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"We are urging every eligible donor between the ages of 17 (with parental permission) and 66 to give blood during this critical period," said A. William Shafer, MD, director, Southeastern Michigan Red Cross Blood Center.

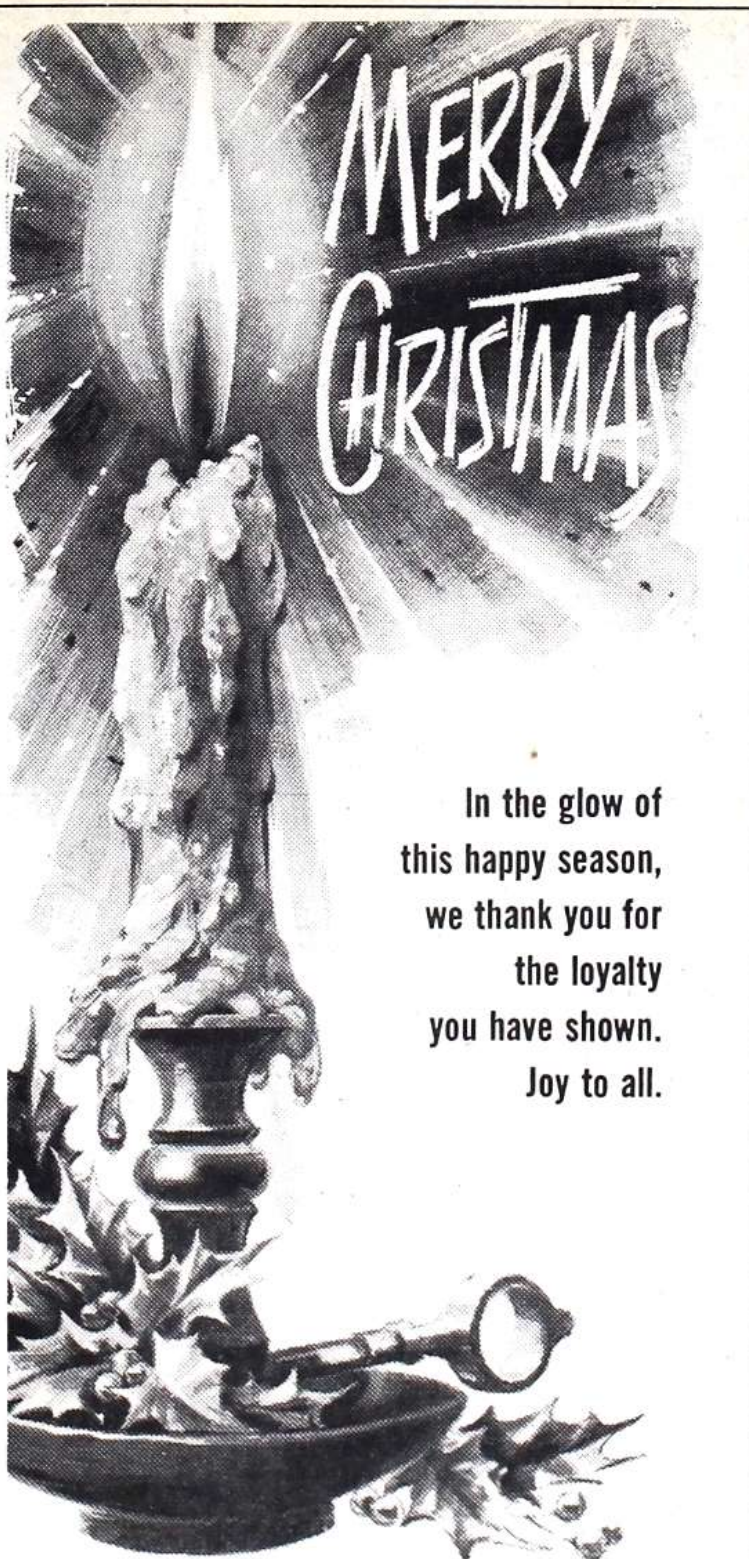

"It is imperative that hospital patients get the blood they need during the holiday season."

because many industries and businesses close for vacation.

"Since a great amount of blood collected in our five-county area is provided by industry, this important source is lost during the holidays," Dr. Shafer said. "We are confident that members of the community will respond to this need and donate on Monday or sometime during the following week."

The Dearborn Donor Center in the Village Plaza, 23400 Michigan Avenue, Dearborn, will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Save-A-Life Day. To make an appointment, call the center at 274-5450.

In the glow of this happy season, we thank you for the loyalty you have shown. Joy to all.

Holiday Tourney Time

Cherry Hill, Salem, Rouge to host local cage teams

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

It's the holiday season and it's also time for the annual Holiday High School Basketball Tournaments. Local prep cage teams will be seeing action on three fronts: Cherry Hill, Plymouth Salem and River Rouge.

At Cherry Hill, where the shooting began Wednesday night, four teams will be out to dethrone Belleville, which has captured the last two holiday titles. Along with the host and the defending champ, Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial will join in the battle for an early Christmas gift.

At Salem, undefeated Plymouth Salem will host Livonia Stevenson, Livonia Churchill and Thurston.

Meanwhile, River Rouge, the perennial Class B state title hopeful, restored its annual Holiday Tournament, inviting Dearborn Heights Robichaud, Detroit Western and Detroit Holy Redeemer.

Wednesday was the first day of winter and Wayne Memorial hoped to freeze out Belleville's hopes of an unprecedented third Western Wayne Tournament crown. The two brought the curtains up to the tournament at 6 p.m., while Cherry Hill takes on John Glenn at 8 p.m.

The championship will be decided at 8 p.m. on Thursday, while the losers play in a 6:30 p.m. consolation game.

"I definitely feel we're the underdogs this year," commented Tom Niemi, Belleville's head coach. "I feel that Cherry Hill, with its 4-1 record, definitely has the edge in this year's tournament."

Cherry Hill Coach Dick McNally remarked "that the field is balanced this year."

"We're looking forward to the tournament," McNally continued, "There are four decent teams and it will be a well-balanced tournament."

Though Salem is undefeated, Coach Fred Thomann also views this year's tournament as "a tough one."

There are three excellent-record teams entered this year," Thomann said. "No one can ever underestimate Stevenson or Churchill and Thurston will be tough despite their record (1-4).

The first round will pit Stevenson against Thurston at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, while the nightcap features the host and Churchill at 8 p.m.

The championship will be decided at 8 p.m. Friday night. There is a 6:30 p.m. consolation game.

Rouge should have little difficulty winning its own holiday tournament. The unbeaten Panthers beat Robichaud earlier in the week and had a 30-point edge over Coach Francis McCauley's Bulldogs before both coaches turned loose their reserves.

The rematch between the two Suburban Athletic Conference teams will take place in the second game, 8:30 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 27 after neighborhood rivals, Detroit Western and Holy Redeemer shot it out at 6:30 p.m.

The championship at Rouge will be settled on Wed., Dec. 28 at 8 p.m., after the consolation game.

There is an admission charge for all of the tournaments, ranging from $1.50 at Salem to $1 at Cherry Hill.

KELVIN PATTERSON

Patterson leads Tigers by Trenton

Lynx-eyed Kelvin Patterson pumped in 25 points to lead Belleville to an 81-60 victory over Trenton Friday night, giving Coach Tom Niemi's quintet its first conference victory of the season.

The victory evened up Belleville's Suburban 8 Conference record at 1-1, but left the Tigers holding a 2-3 overall mark.

"We're beginning to play basketball," said Niemi. "I felt we did an excellent job on them defensively despite the fact that they were a bigger ball club than we were."

Trying to overcome the effects of the flu bug which has kept Elvis

Currie out of the line-up for the past two games, Belleville was forced to shuffle its starting five. Niemi inserted Wayne Straight into the game and the sophomore "was a pleasant surprise."

"Despite the obvious lack of varsity experience, Straight performed with a lot of poise."

Close through the entire initial half, Belleville held a 17-15 first period lead and was up by one at halftime, 32-31. Then, a fortuitous turn of events, turned the close contest into a Belleville runaway as the Tigers chased in on their tenuous defense for some quick and uncontested lay-ups to outscore the Trojans 25-7.

It was only a matter of time after the third period as Niemi had a chance to use just about everyone on the bench.

Trenton's Matt Rose, assigned to cool off the hot Patterson in the second half, failed to accomplish the impossible mission. Patterson, averaging 20-plus ppg, drilled in 10 field goals and made five free throws for a healthy 25 points. Rose, who had 12 points before the half, apparently tired and was forced to settle for 15 points for the losers.

Three other Belleville cagers wound up in double figures. Herb Burrus contributed 14, Rob Laney had 12 while Chris Koger counted 11.

Patterson also contributed 17 rebounds, while Scott Straight picked up 14 caroms and nine points.

With Koger and Currie missing from the line-up last Tuesday because of flu, Belleville bowed to Adrian, a nonleague rival, 57-51. The Tigers "methodically" fell apart in the final six minutes, after leading most of the game.

Ahead 29-20 at the end of the first half, and 43-35 at the three-quarter mark, Belleville let the victory slip away when it managed to get a mere eight points to Adrian's 22 in the last eight minutes of the duel.

Again it was Patterson who contributed nearly half of his team's points. Patterson sank nine field goals and seven free throws for a game high 25 points. Burrus was the only other Tigers in two figures. He had 12.

The Sports Meridian

'Tis the season

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

William H. Thorne may not have known it at the time but when he was busy setting up a bowling banquet last week he was simultaneously making preparations for his own retirement party.

Thorne, who has been with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department for nearly a quarter of a century, bowls with his fellow patrolmen and officers in a Town & County Lanes League.

Usually around this time of the year he arranges for a Christmas banquet.

On Friday, it was a bit different and an unusual party.

Lt. Gino O'Grady, new retired from the WSCD, explained: "We let him make the arrangements for the Christmas banquet, but he didn't know that we were preparing to honor him for his 25 years of service with the department."

"Fussy" — that's what his friends call him — is one heck of a guy and he told us that he wanted to retire this year to devote most of his time to training horses, so some of us got together and used the bowling party that Bill arranges for his own retirement party."

Thorne and his wife live in Romulus, and the two have a 10-acre spread where they train thoroughbreds.

"He's one heck of a trainer," Lt. O'Grady says.

One of the men involved in the clandestine retirement party Norm Vasquez, who joined the sheriff's department in 1974. Vasquez graduated from Garden City East and Eastern Michigan.

Norm is a former East High football player, who starred back in the early sixties for the Panthers as a running back.

"Fussy is one heck of a guy," Vasquez said, "He has the respect of all of us on the force and he's the kind of person who would do anything for you."

What did the guys in the office get Bill as a retirement gift? A stop-watch, what else for a guy who trains horses?

There is what we in this profession call a sidebar to this story.

Unbeknown to the people at the sheriff's department, Thorne, excuse the pun, has been a pain in my wallet for years.

You see "Fussy's" sister, Doreen, happens to work as a civilian clerk in the Dearborn Heights Police Department. And way, way back — many years ago when I used to cover that beat, Doreen would offer me such interesting tips as "Latin Mission", one of Thorne's horses, "is ready, a sure bet."

Of course, who could ever pass up a "sure bet". And we would trot down to DRC in Livonia and place a small wager on the horse. I never won anything on the horse.

But, as anyone who has anything to do with horses will tell, the day I would be stuck behind the typewriter, that darn horse would pay off. And pay off well.

That's life.

The three young men — Mike Bossory, Larry LeValley, Jeff Wauer — whose pictures you'll find on the bottom of these pages, represent New Boston Huron's contribution to our All-Area Football Team.

For some mysterious reason the photos disappeared before going to press the week of the All-Area edition. We thought it was only fitting and proper that they be honored.

And, before we forget, let me wish all of you, and your loved ones, "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

Churchill's Ralph Jarnot (50) outmuscles Canton's Russ Mandle (15) for this rebound during Friday night's key Western Six Conference confrontation. Jarnot apparently has a knack for being at the right place at the right time as he hauled down 13 rebounds and contributed nine points to the Chargers' 57-50 victory. It was pre-season title favorite Canton's first league and third setback in a row.

Bachus, Leverenz capture Rogers' wrestling titles

Making their inaugural appearance at the prestigious Rogers' Invitational Wrestling Tournament in Ohio, Wayne Memorial was able to test its strength against some of the finest teams in Michigan and Ohio.

And Coach John Wood's grapplers turned out to be the third best team at the 16-team tournament.

Wayne also received its share of gold as Chris Bachus and Chris Leverenz represented the local wrestlers on the winner's dais.

"It was an excellent tournament," said rookie Wayne coach John Wood. "I felt our wrestlers showed a lot of poise and stamina against some of the finest high school wrestlers in the two states."

Temperance Bedford, the two-time defending Class A Michigan champ, earned the team championship as the winners compiled 193½ points. Lansing Eastern finished runners-up with 159, while Wayne had 150 points, for third place.

Rogers, the host, was fourth with 119 points.

As a sophomore Chris Bachus said "someday I will become a state champ." The 17-year-old Wayne senior took a giant step in realizing that goal as he claimed the gold medal in the 145-pound class by outwrestling Ann Arbor Huron's Tim Fagan, 6-2.

Leverenz, an All-Area griddler as well as wrestler who reached the Class A state quarter-finals a year ago, bumped off Rogers' Dave Henry in 4:43 to win the 185-pound class title.

Adrian had the wrestler who posted the most victories by falls in Guy Morton, a 185-pounder who won three of his matches by pins in an elapsed time of 6:35.

Meanwhile, Gary Crump, a 132-pounder out of Lansing Eastern, was named the invitational's Most Valuable Wrestler.

Wayne hosted its own invitational on Wednesday with six other teams trying to take the title away from defending champ, Warren Lincoln. Along with Wayne and Warren, also seeking invitational accolades are Garden City East, Garden City West, Thurston, Trenton and Allen Park.

Allen Park's line-up will include the Class A defending state champ, 105-pounder, Ron Vig.

1. Temperance Bedford (193½); 2. Lansing Eastern (159); 3. Wayne Memorial (150); 4. Toledo Rogers (119); 5. Fremont Ross (97); 6. Toledo Whitmer (90½); 7. Adrian (80½); 8. Maumee (79); 9. Witchcraft at Salem?

Coach Fred Thomann better watch out, and not for Santa. If he continues with his magic, fans will begin accusing the Plymouth Salem cage coach with witchcraft.

Thomann used what appeared to be a bit of magic and a lot of patience Friday night to dislodge a stubborn Redford Union team from its zone defense and went on to win a crucial 57-43 Suburban 8 Conference victory.

It was Salem's fourth win in as many starts and second in the league.

"It was an extremely hard fought game," commented Thomann. "A struggle all the way."

Salem rushed out in front 12-8 in the first period, then the Rocks pelleted R.U.'s decaying defenses hard in the next eight minutes as lanky forward Tom Ellinghausen opened up with a barrage of short jumpers and Mike Christie connected on five 15-footers, pulling Salem ahead 35-21 at intermission.

Redford Union retreated into a zone defense the second half and Salem chose to play delayed-pattern type of game the next two periods. Outscored 14-10 in that third frame, the Rocks came back to protect their lead with a 12-7 edge in the last eight minutes.

Ellinghausen's contribution to the Rocks' fourth victory included 18 points and 10 rebounds, but Thomann credited John Broderick's defensive play as a major factor in the victory.

Broderick, a 6-4 center, managed to limit Redford Union's prolific scorer, Mike Petsch, a 6-6 pivotman to 11 points. Petsch had piled up 66 points in his last two outings.

"John definitely did the job for us," Thomann pointed out. "Stopping Petsch was an important factor in this game."

Ellinghausen, who had 18 points and Christie, who finished with 12, were the only Salem cagers to hit in double figures.

Petsch was joined by Jim

Grimwade, who chalked up seven field goals and made four of six free throws, for 18 points, in the two figure column.

There have been a couple of date changes that Rock fans should take note. Salem will meet Dearborn on January 3 in Plymouth in a game that was postponed because of the recent snow storm.

The Rocks' scheduled game with Fordson on that date (Jan. 3) will be played on Feb. 14.

Rockets throttle Thurston, 67-24

Glenn cage Coach Gordie Davis says he doesn't want to startle anyone, all he wants is for his teams to win ball games.

The Rockets did both: they launched the defense of their Northwest Suburban Conference title by shocking Redford Thurston 67-24.

And earlier in the week they beat Southgate into submission 75-52.

Glenn's transcript for victory was even more impressive because they chalked up the wins without their 6-6 senior center, Tom Jurewicz who is nursing the flu.

Darin Armstrong, who has thus far been a silent partner in Glenn's scoring production, came alive in the first period against Thurston and rattled the nets for 10 points, staking the Rockets to a comfortable 24-4 advantage.

After that quarter, Glenn could have named the point spread. The Westlanders were in front 32-12 at halftime and doubled anything the Eagles put on the board in the third period. They took a 50-18 lead into the final period.

"We anticipated a strong battle from them because they usually have a scrappy bunch of players," Davis pointed out. "We managed the game from the first period on and I managed to use all 12 players."

Armstrong sank nine field goal for his 18 points, his team's high and Ed Bates supported him with 14, the only other cager to reach double figures.

Against Southgate, Glenn wasted little time as Pat McBride and Bates fired in six and five points respectively to move the Rockets out in front 14-9 and they never trailed after that. Enjoying a 34-18 halftime lead at the half, Davis turned the game over to the bench most of the second half.

Bates scored a career high 19 points, topping Armstrong for the Rockets' individual scoring honors and sharing the game's honors with Ralph Wielba of Southgate.

McBride also had an excellent night as the senior floor general collected 17 points.

Davis and the Rockets will get their second look at Cherry Hill at the Western Wayne Tournament which began Wednesday night at Cherry Hill. Their first confrontation ended up with Cherry Hill winning 76-70. The winner of Wednesday's rematch will play the survivor of the Belleville-Wayne game.

The championship is scheduled for Thursday night at 8 p.m. There is a consolation game at 6:30 p.m.

Churchill subdues Canton

With one stroke Livonia Churchill built up its title stock in the Western Six Conference basketball company and proved to Plymouth Canton it needs still further adjustments in its cage machine.

Coach Fred Price's Chargers subdued Canton 57-50, handing the Plymouth quintet its first loss in the conference. The victory lifted the Livonians into a two-way tie for first place with Northville, also 2-1 on the league year.

"We played our kind of ball game," said Coach Price whose team took a 5-1 over-all record into tonight's Holiday Tournament at Plymouth Salem. "We also received some excellent rebounding from Jarnot (Ralph) which was very helpful."

Jarnot picked off 13 rebounds and also contributed nine points.

But it was Jarnot's teammate, Craig Hanton, who picked apart Canton's inadequate defense. Hanton swished the nets for 18 points and he received ample support from Ray Pogor who contributed 15.

Canton flunked the key test with the perennial title contender, but the Chiefs are still a power to contend with. They are seated in third with a 1-1 conference record.

Canton took the initiative in the first period as a balanced scoring attack, sparked by Randy Rienas and Kurt Herbert who had six points apiece and Butch King's four points lifted the Chiefs to a 15-12 advantage.

But the Livonians replied with a 16-9 scoring wedge in the second period thanks to Ray Pogor's six and Ralph Jarnot's four points to move out in front 28-23 at halftime.

Churchill ever gave up the lead after that, outscoring their league rivals 17-11 in the third period but losing 14-12 in the final eight minutes.

King, who had scored 33 points in a one-man show against Lathrup, was limited to night points by a pair of junior Churchill defenders, Mike Talovich and Dave Krick.

"I feel that it was our defensive game that turned the game around for us," said Price. "We knew we had to stop King so we used a box-zone with one man in front keeping an eye on him. It worked."

Herbert finished the night with 18 points, Canton's high, while Mandle added 10.

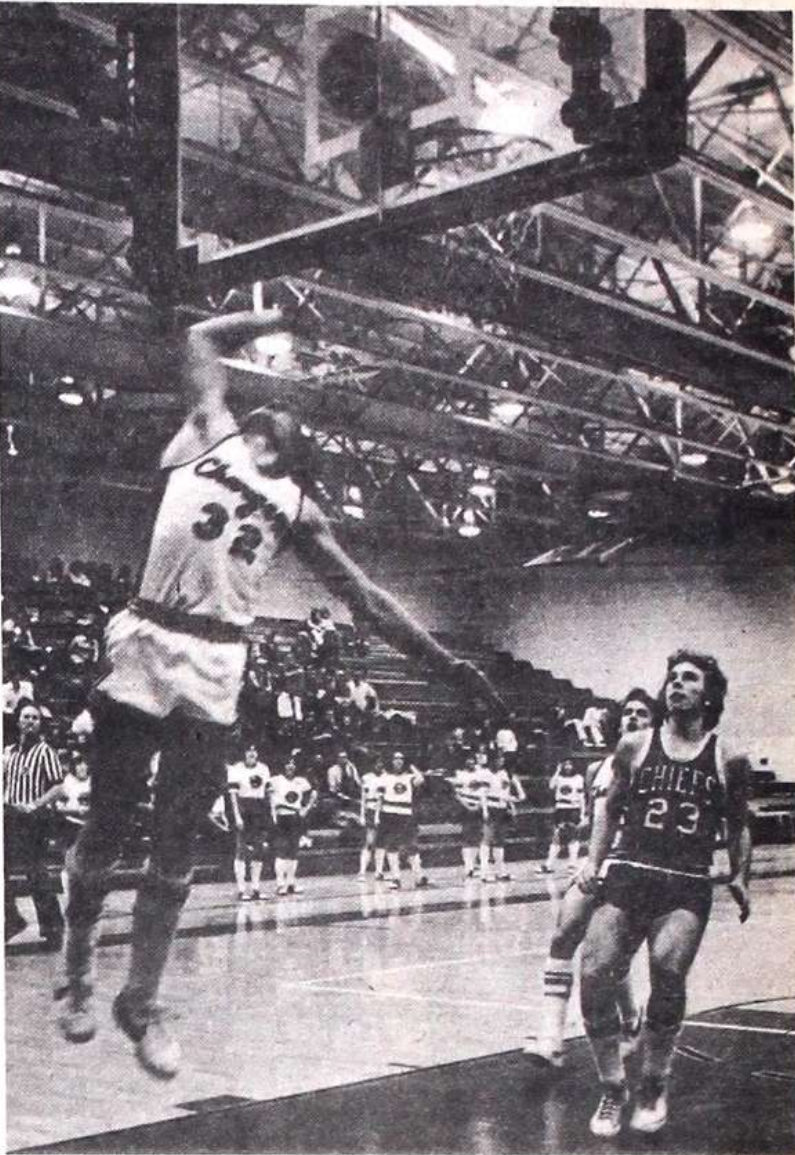

It was Canton's third consecutive setback.

With blitz-kreig precision, Cherry Hill erased Clarenceville from its paths to prepare for an all-out offensive for the Western Wayne Holiday Basketball Tournament.

With Plymouth Canton's Butch King (23) unable to stop him, Livonia Churchill's Ray Pogor (32) goes in for an easy layup in Friday's game between the two Western Six rivals.

Pogor contributed 15 points to Churchill's 57-50 triumph that moved Fred Price's Chargers into a two-way tie for first place.

Belleville wins Chelsea wrestling tourney title

Belleville qualified eight wrestlers for the finals, won seven weight classes and ran away with the Chelsea Invitational Wrestling Tournament title last week.

Coach Gerald Malecek's Tigers, who have a string of five dual meet victories, emerged atop of the nine-team Chelsea field with plenty to share.

Belleville had 209 points to runners-up, New Boston Huron's 164. Following the leaders were Chelsea (85½), Tecumseh (79), Lake Fenton (69½), Linden (48), Albion (38½), and Howell (29½).

Belleville's gold medalists included: Ed Paris (98), Joe Justin (112), Scott Harsch (119), Mark Ford (126), Carl Winekoff (138), Bob Cook (178) and Rick Briggs (191).

Rick Winekoff also made it to the finals but he lost a close 4-0 decision to Huron's Ronnie Thorsberry, a defending Class B state champ. Thorsberry got the gold, while Winekoff settled for the silver.

"I felt we had an outstanding day," said Malecek. "We should have had another champion with Stan Johnson, our 155-pounder. Stan lost on a default and he was ahead of the other wrestler."

Belleville wrestlers also made history last week with their victory over Livonia Bentley. For the first time the Tigers managed to shut out a team, whipping the Bulldogs 73-0. The victory was the second for the Belleville contingent which is

Though they finished fourth, Plymouth Canton swimmers took five first places, three in record-setting times at the Ypsilanti Invitational.

Adrian won the team trophy with 314 points, while Canton finished fourth with 226.

Coach Bill Saunce's swimmers had the best 200-yard medley and 400 yard freestyle relay teams in the field.

The medley foursome of Bob Cline, Paul Petersen, Steve Wood turned in with a 1:44.6 which set a Canton varsity, a Ypsilanti pool and a meet record and also qualified the team for the Class A statefinals.

Petersen earned two other seeking its second consecutive Suburban 8 Conference championship.

Last Tuesday, the Tigers chalked up victories against Ypsilanti (38-27) and Ann Arbor Huron (55-12).

Cherry Hill built up an impenetrable 41-25 halftime advantage as McNally used everyone in his lineup early. At one stage in the game, the Spartans had a 34-15 lead on their nonleague rivals.

Cherry Hill's Floyd Simmons did an excellent job defending 6-7 Clarenceville pivotman Bill Peterson who collected nine points during a span of three periods. When Simmons gave way to a replacement in the fourth period, Peterson opened up with a barrage of baskets and finished the night with 24 points.

That output however didn't top Cherry Hill's Tyrone Jordan's shooting performance. Jordan finished the night with 27, the game's top effort. Teammate Simmons and Don Calloway chipped in with 17 and 15 points, while George Johnson added 10.

Clene had the best backstroke time in the meet, covering the 100-yards in 1:01.5.

Canton's 440-yard freestyle relay team of Steve Wood, Mike Gaab, Bob Cline and Dave Tanner combined for a 3:31.8, good enough for a gold medal.

"We don't have very much depth on this team," commented Saunce, "we do however have a few 'blue chip' runners who can make this an interesting season for us."

Airport snaps Huron win streak

Last week was one week that New Boston Huron cage coach Gene Smith would like to forget.

But, for the records, it was a week filled with frustrations and it went down as a week in which the Chiefs lost more league games than they did during the entire 1976-77 season. It was also a week which saw the end of Huron's 16-game home winning streak.

Huron was edged 55-52 by Airport Friday and also dropped a 61-51 decision to Carlson last Tuesday, dipping its record to 1-2 in conference competition. Last year Smith's Chiefs chalked up a 13-1 Huron Conference record which enabled them to split the championship with Tecumseh.

"It just hasn't been our week," moaned Smith whose cagers took on Southgate, a Tri-River representation Tuesday night. "We can't blame the defense—it's there—but we're not making the easy shots."

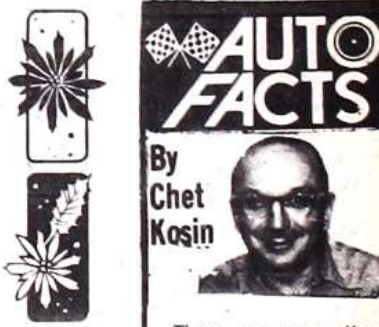

Airport ended Huron's domination of the home court as the invaders

There are more than 110 million licensed drivers in the United States, and theoretically, every one is a potential hazard. Night driving is the most common of all difficult driving situations. It is three times as dangerous as daytime driving, the experts tell us. Before starting out at night, make sure your headlights are working, clean, and aimed properly. Wash your windshield and rear window. Grimy glass not only reduces your ability to see out, but also spreads the glare of oncoming and trailing lights.

"Anyone can win it." That's how Wayne Memorial head swim coach Jim McPartlin assessed the field for the 1977 Wayne Relays. "I sincerely believe that any of the six teams entered in this year's relays can win it," said McPartlin whose own Zebras have an untarnished 2-0 over-all record.

"But if there's one team that has an edge I guess it would have to be Cherry Hill, the defending champ," McPartlin added.

The relays will be held on Thursday, (Dec. 22) at 1 p.m. at Wayne High's pool. Along with Wayne and Cherry Hill, there will be teams representing Riverview, Taylor Truman, Taylor Center and Lincoln Park.

Wayne launched the 1977-78 dual meet season by beating Dearborn Heights Crestwood, 100-63, then came back on Thursday to whip Ypsilanti by the identical score.

"We received good performances out of a couple of sophomores in the Ypsilanti meet," noted McPartlin, who praised Jim Watts for his efforts in the individual medley and Joe Miles for his performance in the sprints.

Ypsilanti, however, had the edge in first places, 6-5.

Mills led a Wayne sweep in the 50-yard freestyle as he turned in a 23.9 to beat out teammates Brian Hewett and Karl Staber to the wire.

Mills also was the top swimmers for the 100-yard freestyle. He was clocked in 52.9.

Spartans swim much better; rip nonleague rival Fordson

Coach Jerry Pawloski's Spartans proved it last week as they dunked Fordson, 100-72, in a nonleague dual meet.

"We swam much better than we did in that first meet," Pawloski commented. (Cherry Hill beat Riverview in its opener). "Some of our kids just didn't swim well in the opener and they looked pretty good against Fordson."

"And we also found three sophomores - Mike Maruzzini (backstroke), Dave Linden (breaststroke) and Pat Bolling (distance freestyler) who contributed some significant points and swam their best performances."

"All indications are that they will be good swimmers," Pawloski continued, "and the interesting thing about it all is that these three don't have swimming backgrounds. They are first year swimmers."

Scott Lillie continued to display the form that helped the Spartans become one of the state powers a year ago. He teamed with Mike Kulwicki, Ken Pickett and Eric Wolfel to win the 200-yard medley relay, then came back and claimed the 100-yard backstroke.

Rick Kogelschatz, an all-stater a year ago, won the 100-yard butterfly in 53.6, after swimming a 2:13.0 to take the 200-yard individual medley. Rick also was a member of the Spartans' winning 400-yard freestyle relay team, combining with Bill Lane, Gary Schuler and Wohlfeil for a 3:36.4.

Belleville tankers coast past Lincoln Park, 53-30

Coach Sam Vicchy's Tigers swept eight of 11 first places with Howard Renton and Mike Stoelton splitting four of them.

Renton churned out a 1:51.6 to win the 200-yard freestyle, then pulled in with a 5:07.3 to take the 500-yard freestyle.

Stoelton had the best time for the 50-yard freestyle (23.3) and was the top performer in the 100-yard freestyle where he swam a 52.03.

Belleville also dominated both relays to remain perfect on the

The Tigers will resume dual meet competition after the New Year when they travel to Grand Blanc on Jan. 6. That will be a warm up for their Suburban 8 Conference debut scheduled for Jan. 12 at home against Livonia Bentley.

Injuries adding to Wayne cage team's problems

As if he didn't have enough problems, Wayne cage coach Chuck Henry must now worry about a rash of injuries that has methodically thinned the ranks of his basketball team.

The first year Zebra mentor entered the week an 0-3 Great Lakes 8 Conference record after Fordson hung on to slim 59-58 victory last Tuesday and Lincoln Park stunned the Waynites 55-40 on Friday.

Out of the Wayne line-up for a variety of reasons are regulars Bob Bortez, Weam Sabagh and Kelvin Lee, all forwards. Coach Henry was forced to look into his junior varsity ranks to fill the vacancies and it "just hasn't worked out."

"I felt we probably played our poorest game of the season Friday night against Lincoln Park," Henry admitted. "I can't really explain it or put my finger on the reasons. I felt that when we came back after being down by as much as 11 points against Fordson that we were beginning to jell."

"Friday night's horrendous performance dispelled that belief," Henry added.

There were no semblances of team play after the first period when Wayne grabbed a 16-14 lead. Lincoln Park, playing a tight zone, recovered from the initial shockwave, outscored the Zebras 16-8 in the second period to take a 32-24 lead.

Though Wayne made a last ditch effort to come back, riding a 10-7 scoring crest in the third period, the Zebras never overcame the second period deficit. Lincoln Park went on to a 18-6 last period to slam the door shut on their rivals.

"Lincoln Park scored the first 12 points of the second period and we began to fall apart," Henry related, "though we got the next eight, we're playing catch-up ball and that isn't easy."

Wayne wasted Darnell Morris's 25 points, 12 in the last period, in its cliffhanger against Fordson.

Trailing 18-13 after the first period and 38-27 at halftime, Wayne came back thanks to Morris's sudden surge and tied the game at 58-all.

But Mike McIntyre, Fordson coach's son, shattered Wayne's dreams of a victory when he hit the second of a two-shot foul to break the deadlock and give the tractors their third victory.

"I was really proud of the way our players came back and refused to quit," Henry said. "We were down by as much as 10 points with three minutes left in the game."

"Morris slammed dunk a pair of baskets and that really brought us back to life," the Wayne coach said.

One of the reasons for Wayne's problems was all-leaguer Bill Cibulka, who scored 27 points for the evening, 13 of those in the first half.

Wayne had its chances to erase the one-point deficit but the ball refused to go into the net. The Zebras had three shots, a couple of tapins with eight seconds left and didn't convert.

Easy shot

Ripping through Holy Redeemer's defenses, Romulus' Richard Lewis (32) goes up for an uncontested layup. It looked easy but it wasn't for the Eagles who found themselves on the shortend of a 66-58 decision

Friday night against the Lions. That's Redeemer's Aaron Mitchell (52) standing in Lewis' path, while Romulus' Vince Bean (34) awaits the rebound.

Bulldogs make it 2 in a row in SAC

Though they have their problems outside the league, Robichaud, the three-time defending Suburban Athletic Conference swim champs, apparently have little to worry about inside the SAC.

Coach Jim Hadley's Bulldogs coasted past River Rouge 110-54 for their second straight SAC victory of the season. They've lost all three out of the league confrontations this year.

The Dearborn Heights tankers, who can rest now until after the New Year claimed seven of the 11 first places as Kevin Gustafson accounted for two individual events and swam on the winning 200-yard Robichaud medley relay team.

Gustafson's 2:33.5 was the top time for the 200-yard individual medley and he also posted a 1:10.0 in winning the 100-yard butterfly.

Airport ends Huron '5' 'home rule'

Chiefs' 16-game streak snapped

hung on to a narrow 55-52 victory after the lead had exchanged hands several times throughout the second half.

Huron fell behind 15-13 at the end of the first period but made up the difference before the half, tying the game at 25-all. Each team scored 15 points in the third period, but the visitors had the edge 15-12, in the last eight minutes.

Huron wasted Randy Pichan's superb all-around effort as the 6-2 junior pumped in 18 points and hauled down 19 rebounds for the Chiefs.

The Chiefs' ineptness at the foul line as well as from the field contributed to their downfall. They made 10 of 20 opportunities at the line and hit on 21 of 62 chances from the floor for 33 percent.

"The free throws really killed us," Smith said. "In the last period alone we had five one-and-ones and missed all five."

It was Brian Anteau who led the Airport uprising as he drilled in three of four shots in the final period to rally the winners.

Earlier in the week Huron attempted to play catch-up ball with Carlson and found the going rough. Carlson's Gary Southerland made sure of that as he pumped in nine of his game-high 25 points in the last quarter to break open a close game.

Carlson had a slim 13-10 edge after the first period and increased the margin to 26-10 at the midway point. Then the Chiefs managed to come back to within three, 39-36, but saw their chances fall apart when Carlson, led by Southerland, out-scored them 22-15 in the last period.

Smith isn't about to toss in the towel on his team.

"I feel we're playing superb defensive ball," he offered, "and when our shooting comes around we'll be heard from. This is a fun team to coach and were going to make things happen."

Greg Dawkins captured three of his team's six first places to lead Stevenson Junior High to its fourth consecutive Wayne-Westland Junior High City Swim Championship recently.

Dawkins, an eighth grader, turned in a 24.8 to claim a gold in the 50-yard freestyle, and posted a 1:07.0 in winning the 100-yard backstroke and also was a member of the Stevenson's winning 400-yard freestyle relay team that finished with a 3:54.2 performance.

"I feel that this is the best junior high school swim team ever produced in the school district," said Stevenson Coach Frank Higgins, "and Dawkins is probably on his way of becoming a super swimmer."

the chores of head coach for John Glenn's varsity swimmers, pointed out that Stevenson, "however, was not a one man team."

"We had other talented individuals such as Doug White, Brian Sleicher, Brett Lally, Rob Emerson, and David Luckett."

Higgins pointed out that there is a better caliber of junior high swimmer because "most of the kids now swim in AAU clubs such as the Wayne Dolphins and the Westland Barracudas."

In winning their fourth city championship, Stevenson swimmers compiled 311 points, easily beating back their closest challenger, Marshall, which had 252. Adams finished third with 211, Franklin was fourth (116) while Nankin Mills was fifth (94).

Bulldogs bow to River Rouge cagers, 83-70

Using its superior height, River Rouge wore down Robichaud in the second period, outscored its hosts 28-16 and went on to an easy 83-70 Suburban Athletic Conference victory over Coach Francis McCauley's Bulldogs Friday night.

It was Robichaud's second conference loss in as many starts this season. The Dearborn Heights' cagers dropped a cliff-hanger earlier last week to arch-rival, Inkster, 60-59.

"Rouge had just too much for us," said McCauley whose teams have never beaten the strong Class A perennial state title contender. "For one period we managed to stay with them, then they buried us."

In the opening quarter, Robichaud's Mike Morgan and Ivy Harper split 12 points between them to keep the Bulldogs alive. Trailing 21-18 after the period, Robichaud fell behind 49-34 at halftime.

Rouge's full-court press forced Robichaud into numerous turnovers in the third period and for all purposes, Coach Lofton Green's Panthers could have quit then as it piled up a commanding 74-47 advantage.

Green turned loose his second stringers in the last eight minutes and they were outscored 23-8 by the Bulldogs, making the score look closer than it actually was.

Morgan and Victor Long hit in double figures for the losers. Long pumped in 16 and Morgan had 14. Rouge's Derek Perry finished with the game high of 23 points and Lou Wartley counted 20.

William Jordan hit a couple of clutch free throws and sank a pair of baskets in the last period to lead Inkster to a delayed 60-59 SAC victory over Robichaud last Tuesday. The two teams were scheduled to meet two weeks ago, but the game was postponed because of a snow storm.

Inkster took a five point lead, 18-13, after the first period, but Robichaud slimmed the margin down to 29-27 at halftime, then went ahead 43-40 for three periods.

With 47 seconds left, Robichaud still had a narrow lead, 59-58, but Jordan erased it. The Bulldogs had two separate chances within the final minutes, blew one on a traveling violation and got the second shot off when Earl Kendall's desperation shot which hit the backboard, went into the basket and spun out.

After hosing the city tournament Wednesday night, Robichaud will take part in its second holiday tournament in as many weeks. They'll return to Rouge where McCauley's Bulldogs play the host on Dec. 28 at 8 p.m.

Three former prep football stars from the area were selected for post-season honors' teams for helping Grand Valley State College win the Great Lakes Conference football title this season.

The trio: Daryl Gooden of Romulus, Joe Pollard of Livonia Franklin and Mack Lofton of Dearborn Heights Robichaud were among six named from Grand Valley for All-American, All-Conference and all-NAIA District 23 accolades.

Lofton started the season at a defensive tackle slot and near midseason was moved outside to play end. That move may have turned the season around for the Lakers who proceeded to win their last five games.

Gooden is considered the strongest player on the Laker squad. Always a hard hitter, Daryl is the defending conference shotputter champion and was among the team's leading tacklers.

Pollard, a strong safety, is the surest tackler on the Laker team. He led the team in tackles, in fact. Gooden, Pollard and Lofton were named to the honors teams for the first time.

No bank pays higher interest than NBD.

And that's a fact!

If you're a little in the dark about interest rates on bank savings, we're not surprised. After all, you've been exposed to some rather confusing claims lately.

We think it's time to set the record straight.

Quite simply, no other bank in town pays higher interest rates on regular savings accounts than National Bank of Detroit.

That's 5% per year—the absolute limit the law permits banks to pay. And at NBD you get daily interest, interest from the day you make your deposit to the day you take it out; that can add a lot to the amount your money earns. Daily interest—that does make a difference.

And we can make one statement that no other bank can match. Year in and year out, NBD pays out more dollars in interest on savings accounts than any other financial institution in town.

We thought you should know the facts.

EveryDay Interest. Making banking better for you.

Daily interest savings is also available from the following NBD-affiliated banks: NBD Commerce Bank, Lansing; NBD Troy Bank; National Bank of Dearborn; National Bank of Port Huron; Grand Valley National Bank, Grandville
